WILSON, OR WHO AND WHY

The Great Disillusionizer

Stand Upon Your Hind Legs and Rage

The blame for this British war on Germany not ending last year rests directly upon that British-American, Prof. Woodrow Wilson. If you deny this, read my big book and also see what Wilson in 1913 insisted is neutrality. If he had stood by that, this war would have ended last year and he would not have wronged Germany as he nefariously has. It is not yet un-American to criticize or vote against British-American Prof. Wilson—not until this British-American gets so high-and-mighty that he is Dictator or Czar and has abolished the ballot here in America. Remember all four of his grandparents were British subjects and his mother was English. British-American Prof. Woodrow Wilson is the rankest hyphenate himself. GEORGE WASHINGTON. THE JOSHUA OF AMERICA.

Once in London, Benjamin Franklin was dining with two friends, one of whom was an Englishman and the other a Frenchman. As three nationalities were represented, it was suggested that each of the men propose a toast to his country. The Englishman rose first, and like a John Bull, exclaimed: "Here's to England, the sun that gives light to all the nations of the earth." The Frenchman responded proudly in a similar vein, "Here's to France, the moon whose magic rays move the tides of the world." Then Franklin arose and, with an air of quaint modesty, remarked: "Here is to George Washington, the Joshua of America, who commanded the sun and moon to stand still—and they obeyed."—Selected.

He really was for America first; no sham or buncombe.

REVOLUTIONS COMING IN EUROPE

How Will They Affect America?

WILSON, WHO AND WHY

Handed to the Printer, May 31, 1916

Wallops for Roosevelt

That fire-eating Colonel imagines he is such a holy terror and he raves and tears up the earth about Germany, when if this ferocious egotist had been in the Kaiser's place he would have done what the Kaiser did two days or a week before the Kaiser did it. This untamable wild-man is more like the Kaiser than the Kaiser is himself. Yet he rants and raves about Germany as though he with his bloody lust for killings were brimful of humanity and justice. Bah! It is simply a rank demagogue running himself for President. "Harriman, you and I are practical men." Then, after Harriman comes across with the dough, Harriman is a liar; I never said it nor got it. Ask the N. Y. World. Yet this demagogue claims to tote around a heavy load of political righteousness—political slush. Does America need a Kaiser, too, that can do no wrong? This bloody world has Kaisers enough. "Wilson fears ME." This ferocious ME, with his lust for killing, caused some mother's heart to bleed by shooting in the back her fleeing son and then ME gloated over the taking of that human life. He has enough to do to repent for his own bloody sins without jumping onto the Kaiser. Reader, if there is any statement in this warm pamphlet that you want proved or rubbed in, my big book of 224 pages does it: What Is Wrong with Civilization? Illustrated with cartoons. The truth shall be known and understood in spite of the liars and hypocrites.

A Hell of a Precedent

Prof. Woodrow Wilson got the nomination by allowing his gall to slip up where his honor should have been.

Many persons are not aware how Prof. Wilson happened to get the nomination for President, though Mr. Clark could inform them. So also could that beaming Nebraska sunflower that is so charmed with himself; but it would not redound to the trustworthiness of his hypnotic jaw as a delegate. It has long been the Democratic custom that when one seeker after the nomination for the Presidency has a majority of the votes of the delegates, then all other seekers withdraw their names. Prof. Wilson could not abide by that custom and withdraw his name like the honorable men before him did. Yet he since had the gall to talk about having "a decent regard for what others think." Mr. Clark had a majority of the votes, not one ballot only, but for forty-one or forty-two ballots, and yet Prof. Wilson would not withdraw his name and bow to the Democratic custom as the honorable men before him had done. He had the unprecedented gall to stick through it all, 42 ballots. It was Prof. Wilson's unprecedented gall that got him the nomination down at Baltimore. Prof. Wilson recently said (Feb. 27): "The responsibilities of the office (Presidency) ought to sober a man even before he approaches it." Yes, I think so myself and you can see how it sobered Prof. Wilson down at Baltimore. I know twaddle when I hear it.

A man who will allow his gall to slip up where his honor should have been, and then prate about having "a decent regard for what others think," should not be allowed to imagine that he is the only political pebble on the Democratic beach and then let him blow off through his hat that the Democrats are sure to win when it is only a political minority administration. Slippery Democratic politicians told me months before the raw gall of those 42 sweltering ballots at Baltimore that the big interests (crooked) wanted Prof. Wilson and not Mr. Clark nominated. See how the lawless men of Wall Street robbed the stockholders of untold millions by looting the New Haven R. R. But there would have been no exposure of that gang of crooks—not if Wilson's man, the U. S. Attorney General at the time, could have prevented it. Mr. McReynolds sat upon the lid; but pestiferous Folk persisted in raising both the lid and McReynolds. And Mr. Wilson showed which side he was on by rewarding McReynolds and boosting him on to the U. S. Supreme Court bench, where he can decide on important matters for the Wall Street gang. Mr. Wilson was serving the men who looted the New Haven R. R. then. That loyal American, Wm. Randolph Hearst, says: "This is a government for the protection of the powerful and the exploitation of the weak."

Once, fellow citizens, once we had a great man for President, and he was called "The Illinois baboon," "The nigger lover" by some of these very daily papers of N. Y. City which now make such a loud noise that to be a loyal American citizen you must stand by the professor who let his gall slip up where his honor should have been down at Baltimore; you will find hot stuff all the way through the book. Hot stuff backed up by facts and rubbed in so as to start the howls of the buncombe-tooters.

How to Get Honest Politicians

That will not promise one thing before election and then do the other thing after elected. A new, sure-do-it method that will make patriotic citizens laugh and weep for joy and stir the politicians as they have never been stirred since they smelled pork and it became contagious for them to lie and graft and rush for the barrel.

A campaign has been launched for the sterilization of fifteen million Americans according to the International News Service as well as N. Y. City dailies. A eugenic organization, after four years' work in this country and Europe, reached the conclusion that sterilization of defectives is the greatest work before them. The committee on sterilization in its report demands the sterilization of 92,400 persons in this country this year. They have the backing of many prominent persons and multi-millionaires and intend to rush the matter with Congress. They have discovered the fact that where the sole object is to prevent the reproduction of life, sterilization is possible. They estimate that about 10 per cent. of the present population of the United States ought to be sterilized. These defectives are such a burden upon society and cost the country so many hundreds of millions that they want to make sure that they have no descendants.

I have been all over the country investigating and I have seen how it does cost this nation hundreds of millions every year just for one class of defectives alone. This class of defectives cannot see the same after election that they do before they are elected. Now I have fully investigated this class of defectives and find their defect is a gyrating intellect. They cannot help seeing things differently after they are elected from what they did before they were elected. These defectives with gyrating intellects cost the nation hundreds of millions of dollars every year. Now, sterilization is the sure cure. Then we can breed politicians that can see the same after election that they do before they are elected. Then we can get an honest man like Hearst on the job, but not now. Up bobs some aesthetic gent and bewilders and obfuscates the voters with his exquisite promises and gyrating intellect, and before you are aware he is on the job and the taxpayers are in for it again.

If men and women invest their savings in railroad stocks and some big crook loots that road and a bunch of the stockholders are reduced to want and suffer and go insane, they are to be sterilized on the ground that they are defectives. Sterilize the big crook as well as his victims. The crook is defective; he is soulless—has no heart. Sterilize the big swindlers as well as his victims. There are a bunch of big crooks that cost this nation more every year than all the insane asylums and other institutions for defectives do. Why sterilize the victims and not sterilize the swindlers that cause panics, bankruptcies, suicides and insanity?

Prof. Wilson's Slogan of Preparedness.

Huerta was forced out because big oil interests wanted him out. Read my big book.

He asks: "How can Americans differ about safety in America?" Hearst has been awake to this condition a good many years and has tried to wake up Prof. Wilson ever since this minority administration existed—especially when the Congressmen were gorging themselves with pork and more pork at the expense of our Navy and the United States Treasury. Hearst has been preaching preparedness for years and years and digging at Mr. Wilson. And now at last, after several years in Washington, D. C., Mr. Wilson has discovered that the best bait with which to go after the nomination is that we should prepare for war. Pork, more pork is the battle-cry that never fails to thrill the Democratic Party.

Hearst has preached preparedness when this Administration suppressed everything about preparedness it could. Hearst has worked like a patriot and Prof. Wilson has worked like a shifty politician until he needed a slogan to swing around the circle after the nomination at St. Louis, and then preparedness is just the thing. Prof. Wilson, why not use your old slogan of 1912, free tolls for American ships? Why not try your old slogan of 1912, economy in national expenses? Prof. Wilson, why not brag about what a fine Democratic tariff you have got? Prof. Wilson cannot stand on the record of a single fulfilled pledge that he made to the voters in 1912 to get the nomination at St. Louis. Garrison discovered that the less significant a man is in the Cabinet the better he stands with this Administration. You cannot take gall and rhetoric and sophistry and buncombe and make an American statesman.

You Political Liars.

Stand Upon Your Hind Legs and Rage.

"They Whom the Gods Would Destroy, They First Make Mad."
Now Go Mad. I Will Stir You Up.

An old Hebrew wrote: The Lord shall go forth as a mighty man. He shall stir up jealousy like a man of war; he shall cry, yea, roar; he shall prevail against his enemies.—Isaiah xlv, 13. The Lord must be ruling this bloody earth on the absent treatment plan the way the old thing is reeling or he would turn loose and do that roaring that Isaiah tells about and stir up the jealousy of these measly political liars that deceive the American fools. He would also stir up their bosses—the immaculate cusses of Wall Street—and rile that pirate, John Bull—the bloodiest monster that ever walked this earth and called himself civilized. I think the Lord would turn loose and tell that conceited little-headed Woodrow Wilson what a hypocrite he is and that ranter Roosevelt what a rank demagogue he is 366 days this year.

Thy Kingdom Come; Thy Will Be Done on Earth.

Diabolical John Bull says he is the Lord of the earth, and this bloodiest of all oppressors and pirates says his will shall be done on land and sea. This pirate and robber says, what I do to India and Ireland shall be done to Germany, because I cannot compete with the blasted German. And that bombastic flunkey down at Washington says, I will not omit any word or act to help out England. The war lord of Germany says his satanic will shall be done and the empire extended as John Bull extends his. And that rank demagogue and would-be regulator of the universe of Oyster Bay says, it is his demagogic will that shall be done. And the big robbers of Wall Street say, We shall rob and devour to our heart's content and no one shall send us up to the pen. And the everlastingly malignant French are as revengeful as Paris is rotten, and they say, We will get even with Germany for in 1871 giving us the smashing that we deserved and making us return what we had stolen. And the Dago says, if I cannot blackhand Austria I will sail in and assassinate him. Russia—in barbarous Russia only devils reign as in Turkey. One slaughters the Armenians, and the other outrages and crucifies the Jew wholesale, and our rotten politicians help the Russian brutes and curse the Turk. These bloody men imagine they can have their devilish way and divine wrath and destruction will never overtake them when they have got this Christless civilization headed straight for sudden revolution, anarchy and hell. You bloody deceivers will soon have to face revolutions and divine wrath for what you have done.

All the raving Roosevelts and hypocritical Wilsons and grafting politicians and big Wall Street crooks and British Stiffs, the king and his titled bums, and Kaisers and Czars cannot stop divine wrath and justice. The nations and civilization was never so rotten. Never since there was a nation has the world been so shaky and dead ripe for revolution after revolution in one nation after another. That is how evil will go forth from nation to nation (Jer. 25). There is no way this war in Europe can end that will not intensify discontent and hate there. And the after-clap of this carnage which you Wall Street crooks have feed will send the cold shivers down your backs with a vengeance. You big devils ought to have sense enough to know that your cussedness will all come home to you. But you wanted to help rotten old England, that was shaking and tottering before this war, to tear down Germany.

I am Elijah the Prophet, who was to come before the great and dreadful day of the Lord (Mal. iv, 5).

Two men will be killed by a mob and their dead bodies will lie three days and a half in the street of a big city and be viewed by crowds. Then they will be resurrected and translated in the presence of thousands of people on the judgment day. Go read this prophecy. Rev. 11.

"And after three days and a half the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them. And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them. And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain seven thousand: and the remnant—(who are the remnant? See Rom. ix, 27; Jer. xxxi, 7; Rev. vii, 48; Rev. xiv, 1-5; 1 Cor. i, 26; Luke xiii, 24)—were affrighted and gave glory to the God of heaven.”—Rev. 11. These two men will begin their prophesying in the south and after they have prophesied for some time their pictures and full particulars about them, where they were born and lived and the day they will be killed and the name of the great city and the street and block will be published in a pamphlet of Scriptural discussions. You will soon find to your condemnation and sorrow that the Bible is the sure word of prophecy. You sanctimonious converted hypocrites, go read Revelations. There are the direful scourges and calamities soon to be visited upon this rotten, wicked world. If you want pure Christianity, read “The Sign of the Lord’s Coming.”

Never was there a time this nation should have been actuated by love and peace and humanity instead of hate and greed as during this British war on Germany. I tell you, the red-hot judgment day will sober up these fools here and convince them that they were deceived by the lying, prating devils about that monster, John Bull, and humanity and neutrality. You bet your life, these rotten politicians and Wall Street and bloody John Bull cannot side-track the judgment day nor escape it. Go read how hard it will hit them, Isaiah xiii, 5-19; Joel 1 and 2. These perilous times justify the language of this book. Events will shortly demonstrate that.

Elijah, the prophet, must know how to tell what day is to be the judgment day or he is not the real stuff. To prophesy of the coming judgment day and warn the world of the destruction that is to overtake it, he is got to know how to tell exactly when that great and dreadful day is coming. He is the man who is to fulfil that prophecy and command of Joel: Blow ye the trumpet in Zion, and sound an alarm in my holy mountain: let all the inhabitants tremble; for the day of the Lord cometh, for it is nigh at hand. This prophecy of Joel’s proves that warning of the nearness of the judgment day was to be given to the world. This is why Paul said: Children of light ye are not in the dark that the day of the Lord should come upon you as a thief; yet as a thief it comes upon the world (the sinners), because they will not believe (1 Thes. 5). Again I tell you men that I am Elijah, the prophet, sent to warn the world of the nearness of the judgment day. That day wickedness will burn as the fire (Isa. ix, 18). That day the sun will be darkened (Rev. vi, 12) for eight hours (Rev. viii, 12), the moon turn red, the stars fall and the whole earth shake. Sinners will then be convinced of their doom. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every freeman, hid themselves in dens and in the rocks of the mountains to hide from the wrath of God (Rev. vi, 15-17). You bloody, satanic rulers of Europe, your carnage has sealed your own doom. From the very beginning night and day I thought how can this war be stopped. I tried my best; but you men were hellity-bent on blood and destruction. Now the cataclysm is unavoidable. You men who wanted this war of England on Germany to go on go curse yourselves for what you have done. The Kaiser is satanic enough, but he could not have possibly avoided this war. The allies were determined to have this hell.

Righteousness Shall Rule on This Earth, and That Time is Near.

I tell you measly, rotten politicians down at Washington, and you big Wall Street men, and you bloody rulers of Europe, the time is not far away when righteousness shall rule the nations on this earth. You men who survive the coming cataclysm will have to bow the knee to a king who rules in righteousness (Isaiah xxxii, 1). And he will rule the nations with a rod of iron (Rev. ii, 26, 27); and he will rule for a thousand years (Rev. xx, 6). You men understand the import of this message to the world. The hand-writing on the wall says your devilish jig is about up. The time is near for the fulfilment of that prophecy and prayer: Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth. Truth shall triumph; justice shall not forever be frustrated. The strong shall not rob the weak. The nations shall not learn war. The meek shall inherit the earth. The world shall know the power of love. He shall be king of the earth who is its greatest benefactor and not he who is the bloodiest pirate and greatest oppressor of men. John Bull's career is about run. The nations will not long be infested with this satanic breed of rulers and lying politicians. The future office-holders will be servants and not grafters or oppressors as now. I tell you men, by the Eternal, righteousness shall rule on this earth and men shall know the power of love. Soon will there be no rest nor peace for the wicked. Only in righteousness is there peace and safety. To the earnest, the faithful, the meek, I say, rejoice. To the fearful, be strong, fear not; behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence; He will come and save you. And the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away (Isaiah 35; Rev. xxi, 4).

You Big Devils of Wall Street.

You devils, when did you become gods, that your greedy cussedness must not be exposed and condemned? You have played hell with this war-mad civilization.

You have deceived the American fools about this infernal war of the allies on Germany, and you have deceived the sapheads about your hellish treachery that you call neutrality. Blow men into hell by the thousands so you can add to your millions.

You have been lawless and lawlessness and anarchy you will soon reap. You are about to the end of your rope. This blood-thirsty assassination plot of John Bull's will soon have done the job: finished this rotten civilization. The devils from hell could not have plotted more diabolically than have you and John Bull.

You have fed hell, and hell you will sure and soon reap. They that trust in riches and deception and oppression will fall in the day of divine wrath which is near at hand. This rotten, Christless money-mad world is doomed. That day is near when the cattle will do unto you as you have so long done unto the cattle. I tell you that a man of iron and action will soon be needed at the head of this nation instead of a little-headed college professor.

There is no justice in the earth. These are the days of discontent, unrest, sudden upheavals, revolutions. This blood-thirsty war of John Bull's on Germany has made revolution after revolution there inevitable. Then will come home to you what you have done by feeding this bloody hell of John Bull's: such a panic here, followed by lawlessness and anarchy. Then you will want a real man and not a puppet. Stupid humanity, this is just how shaky this rotten, money-crazy civilization is now. Rotten things always go to pieces. Look at Mexico! There was no justice; only slavery and lawless men. The big robbers and oppressors here have their own way as they did in Mexico. Thousands of our laboring men are just as lawless as capital. When the revolutions come in Europe, you will see what these men will do here. Such men must then be given short shift. If you come to your senses, I tell you, you want Roosevelt. We have had plutocratic lawlessness here for years, since the robbers of Wall Street were enthroned during the rebel war. Plutocratic lawlessness is one extreme and the other is near.

That British Stiff, The King, and his bloody men plotted for years to get this war on Germany, and they imagine that they are so high and mighty that God Almighty cannot reach nor harm them with His divine wrath.

Vengeance is mine; I will repay all these bloody men, saith the Lord. According to John Bull's bloody deeds will I recompense this pirate. And recompense bloody as that will be retribution enough. His navy cannot save him in the day of wrath which is near at hand.

The Lord at thy right hand shall strike through kings in the day of his wrath. The Lord will judge among the heathen, he shall fill the places with the dead bodies; he shall wound the heads of many countries.—Ps. 110. You bloody rulers that plot to get war and force your subjects to go in and be slaughtered because rotten old England was shaking and tottering will find that with all your pomp that there is a power mightier than all of you mortals and the bloody deal you have passed out to others will be mercilessly handed to you. With all your strut and pomp and purple you are mortals and not gods nor divine as you pretend. You are of a satanic breed and will yet have to bow the knee to a power mightier than that of mortal men. That "tight little ile" will be the bloodiest slaughter pen this world will ever see. The mills of the gods are soon going to grind. The Lord hath a controversy with the nations; he will give them that are wicked to the sword. Behold evil shall go forth from nation to nation (revolution), and a great whirlwind (yellow race) shall be raised up from the coasts of the earth and the slain of the Lord shall be from one end of the earth even to the other end of the earth. . . . The land will be made desolate because of the fierceness of the oppressors (big robbers and rulers and grafters) and because of the fierce anger of the Lord.—Jer.

25. The nations that forget God shall be turned into the grave and they will not be lamented nor buried; they dung upon the earth. It will be demonstrated to you satanic men that the Bible is not a lie. "I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to the fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, Come and gather yourselves unto the supper of the great God; that ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great; and all the fowls were filled with their flesh."—Rev. 19.

"The Lord maketh the earth empty. The earth is defiled under the inhabitants thereof, because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant. Therefore hath the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate; therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned and few men left" (Isaia 24). The prophecies relating to this destruction have been explained in the book advertised in the back. Joel, 1st and 2nd chapters; Isaiah xiii, 9-18; Isaiah 24; Jer. xv, 15-38; Mal. iv, 5; 1 Thes. v, 1-6; Rev. ix, 14, 15; Dan. 12; Matth. 24.

This nation should have been neutral and not helped either side, as Wm. Randolph Hearst repeatedly urged with his big papers. When the crash of civilization does come then you will see that you should have heeded the warnings of Hearst. What do you want? Want me to keep still and let this world go to smash and destruction without giving any warning? Well, you need not heed what I say any more than you raving demagogues and liars heeded Hearst. But I tell you big crooks and lying demagogues that the money power of America backed up England's war on Germany, and will yet see that you cut your own throats by doing it. The money power cut off its own head will be the verdict of the historian. The longer this war continues the more efficiently you will yet find that you have done the job. The day is near that you will curse yourselves, and not me for it, too.

I tried hard to wake up people to what they were doing. The Sign of the Lord's Coming was advertised in 1914 in the big cities papers from New York City to San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle. All it accomplished was to make that sentimental poetess of the N. Y. Journal sing out: "Do not frighten the people." The afterclap of this war will do worse than frighten the people; it will terrify them. This rotten world will soon get an object lesson of divine wrath that will be remembered through all the centuries to come. I say Roosevelt is the man that should be elected the next President of the United States and not little headed Mr. Wilson; he would lose that little head when the appalling revolutions start. Roosevelt is a selfish demagogue; but he is a man of iron and action in great emergencies. You want to start off this next four years with the stoutest-hearted man you have. I have never been guilty of voting for Roosevelt nor for the other man. The conceited college professors that try to emasculate the Bible and the bloody kings and rulers and rotten, lying politicians and big robbers and looters will soon find that the Bible is the sure word of prophecy. I have tried all I could to bring the American fools to their senses as to what they were doing by feeding and prolonging this carnage in Europe and pyramid-ing the debts there and killing and crippling the white race and insuring revolutions and their own destruction. Hearst told them that they were sweeping our civilization into the pit of anarchy. No, they listened to that hypocrite down at Washington prate about humanity. The monumental sham of this century is the Woodrow Wilson prate about humanity, and then feed and prolong this hell in Europe for over a year. There were weeks after this war began that I never laughed. I walked the floor and said what can I do to stop it. I did all I could. Our civilization is doomed. This nation has been completely deceived about England. Russia and France and England were determined to have war with Germany. England plotted for years to get war and Wilson knows it just as well as he knows there is war.

Sapheads, read this book through and you will find that you are just like the crazy Georgians that would not read the evidence in the Leo Frank case and that wanted to mob the Governor because he did read it. Not one of those rebels that took part in that lynching of Leo Frank can feel that Leo Frank was guilty, and not one of them cannot help but feel that they committed a fiendish, traitorous crime when they lynched him. It was done because the rest of the country considered Leo Frank innocent and he did not get a fair trial, and the rebels looked upon that as interfering with their local affairs and he was a northern man.

They say Germany has been 45 years preparing for this war. The deceived fools do not know that the French used to be the military nation of Europe, and marched across the German states time and again as they pleased. For centuries the French then were always raising hell with the German people. As the historian, Thomas Carlyle wrote in 1870 to the London Times: "No nation ever had so bad a neighbor as Germany has had in France for the last 400 years; bad in all manner of ways; insolent, rapacious, insatiable, inappeasible, continually aggressive." In one war with the treacherous French, the German population was reduced from twenty millions to six millions. It was only after the German states united and became military that France got what she deserved and had to keep out of Germany. The American fools will not read history. Alsace-Lorraine has always been German to the core from the times of Christ. Read my book, "What Is Wrong With Civilization," and post up about how you have been deceived by the liars her that toady to John Bull. That bloody Bull will get divine wrath enough. I do not care how big his navy. My ancestors in old Hingland died so long ago that the British stiff, the king, has no strings on me. Some of them were in the Revolutionary war. And to this day the British are sorry that they were not able to do to George Washington what they have just done to the patriots in Ireland.

Big Crooks and Belgian Neutrality

With you big devils and John Bull all this raving about Belgian Neutrality is simply hot air. You know in the first place that John Bull does not care any more about neutralities than you big crooks here do about the damned public. And next you know for years before this war, Belgian neutrality toward Germany did not exist. And you big devils and lying papers well know all this howl about Belgian neutrality is rank rot to deceive the sapheads here that do not know beans when the bag is open. Their lying papers here have done so much lying about Germany to help that pirate, John Bull, and suppressed news of outrages much worse and more extensive than any exaggerated lie they have so industrially spread about Germany and Belgium, and yet these brazen, lying newspapers claim to be so reliable and trustworthy. England bombarded the unfortified city of Belgium, Ostend, and dropped air bombs upon that city, and the man in England that dared to publish it, was raided by the British police for letting even Englishmen know it. England wants this hell; yet it is awful for Germany to give London a taste of what they wanted.

In an article, June 23, 1912, by John L. Eddy, which has already been mentioned, is this account: "Belgium, where no one a few weeks ago would have thought of intimating even the possibility of a revolution, has also seen rioting break out in all of its principal cities. The disturbances here are frankly Socialistic. Many lives have already been lost, and much property destroyed. Cries of 'Long live France, let us be annexed to France,' not even aroused the opposition of the mobs."

Professor Herbert Sanborn says: "In the year 1901, I spent the whole summer in Brussels and in other parts of Belgium, and know how absolutely pro-French and anti-German the spirit of this whole region, once a part of France, still is. Even the whole Flemish population has been Gallicized completely. Brussels is a small Paris in a sense that no city in Alsace or Lorraine ever has been. Everywhere there is the same loose surface life that we find in France; only in these countries does the European traveller expect to find mistakes in his bills and only here is the avalanche of bad money in circulation—the latter an unheard of thing throughout the length and breadth of the German Empire."

Roosevelt, the Demagogue.

You ferocious demagogue, you are not honest enough to tell the American people that Germany could not have possibly kept out of this war. Either you know it is the truth and are not honest enough to admit it or you are not earnest enough to get the facts. You big-mouthed ranter, if you will read my book, "What Is Wrong With Civilization," you will get the facts that will make you rave. You do not show any disposition to be fair nor just. Hearst has justly censured you for your ranting and raving. Such men as you have inflamed the American fools and feed this hell in Europe until the Christless civilization is doomed. It is get Roosevelt into the lime-light, and get votes and make him president. You demagogue if you had been in the Kaiser's place you would have done what the Kaiser did two days before the Kaiser did it. On August 3, 1914, after this war was on, Grey confessed in Parliament that the British Foreign Office had made a secret agreement with France since 1906 to some time go to war with Germany. Two days before Germany and Russia were in a state of war, Grey threatened to resign unless England backed up France and Russia in war on Germany. Three members of the British Cabinet opposed backing up France and Russia in making war on Germany and Austria and resigned? They were Mr. Burns, Lord Morley and Sir Trevelyn.

Belgium was in the plot against Germany, too. You want proof. Well, there is that Britisher, Mr. Forbes Sutherland. He had for years been a member of the British Intelligence Department. That is what we call a spy for England. The British Government sent Mr. Sutherland to Belgium, Antwerp, with one of the British heads of the Intelligence Department to concert measures with the Belgium Secret Service. These statements of Mr. Sutherland can be vouched for by persons present who heard him address the Boston Press Club on January 14, 1915. The military plans which Grey confessed the British and French laid included Belgium territory, and that is why Belgium was fortified against Germany. That Belgian King deserves no sympathy whatever. Get "What Is Wrong With Civilization" and see how that Belgian King deceived his subjects. That treacherous Belgian government has never repented for the Congo atrocities, and they were not served as they served those natives. I do not care how much you cuss the Kaiser, if you will only give that bloodiest of all monsters, John Bull, a still hotter hell. It is a fine set of bloody stiffies that rule Europe. They deserve the wrath of God.

You liars and deceivers have howled and lied about Belgium just to help that bloodiest of all monsters and pirates, John Bull. Not one of you cared about Belgium or you would have howled and howled when England was assassinating the Boer Republic, and dragging the Boers' wives up and forcing them to look on while they executed their captured husbands for fighting for their homes and country. That demagogue Roosevelt did not go tearing around over our map like a crazy bull with blood in his eye demanding war on the spot with England. This ranter did not howl with his righteous rage and demand that England indemnify the Boers and get to halleluia out of the Boers' country. Bah on this demagogue's humanity and justice; it is only intended to be applied in spots or when he wants votes. If Germany's going through unneutral Belgium were a crime, as you pretend, you hypocrites have gone and committed a bloodier one. You have fed and prolonged this hell in Europe and over a year kept the world from having peace. Yet you liars prate about humanity and that you want peace. John Bull and you liars act as though the day of divine wrath cannot quickly expose you, deceivers, and pay you back. When the revolutions start you may tumble to it that you wicked men have sown the implements of hell and hell you will reap. You bloody hypocrites will soon find that right here is the sure word of prophecy (Rev. ix, 14-21; Isaiah x, 5, 6, 7, 28-34; Joel 2). Devils will tremble (Jas. ii, 19).

The Mad Bull of America.

That demagogue, Roosevelt, like a crazy, mad bull has raged and raved and backed up this un-American, pro-British, Tory administration and robberous Wall Street and the infernal ammunition devils here. Roosevelt backed up this devilish combination in helping that diabolical British Government try to carry out its plot to assassinate another nation because blundering John Bull could not compete with Germany, and rotten England was threatened with revolution. This is the bloodiest and most infernal assassination plot this world ever saw by so-called civilized man. No other war approaches this enormity of that tyrannical British Government, not since Jenghiz Khan mowed down fifty millions of white people on the plains of Europe in his attempt to exterminate the white race. That British Government began in 1906 to plot to get this war on Germany, and the Kaiser could not have possibly avoided war. Because that cursed British Government and France and Russia had diabolically plotted for war and were determined to have war with Germany and treacherous Belgium said, that is right, do up the Germans. Get this hot stuff backed up and rubbed in right by reading my book, "What is Wrong With Civilization?" Illustrated with cartoons.

But to expose the low-down cussedness of the Tories and the lying pro-British here, this pamphlet in your hand—this masterpiece of disillusionizing literature is more effective than all the other stuff off the printing presses combined. The Tories and pro-British here are so measly treacherous that they insist that hundreds of thousands of us Americans are not Americans because we expose and denounce their dastardly cussedness. To expose these cusses is an outrageous sacrilege not to be tolerated. Well, give us more outrageous sacrilege quick and let that mad bull of Oyster Bay tear himself. These liars and deceivers for that bloodiest of all monsters, John Bull, are stupid to the last degree, if they for one minute imagine that they are so high and mighty or so numerous that they are not to be exposed, and still worse later get it rubbed in by divine wrath. The day is near when overwhelming exposure and destruction is to overtake all deceivers and oppressors however high and important they imagine themselves or however much they try to impress it upon us that they are immaculate and inassailable in their measly cussedness. That slogan, "America first," is hypocrisy, a sham; it is buncombe. It means England first. This administration is notorious for raw gall, sophistry, cant, twaddle, buncombe and pork-grabbing and British interests instead of American. But it is blastedly seditious to expose such hypocrites. You can bet your lives on it that I am glad the judgment day is not far away for this rotten Christless civilization. (Mal. iv, 5; Joel ii). I do not care a red cent how much you curse and curse that satanic Kaiser, if you sapheads will only come to your senses and give John Bull a still hotter hell. All the same he will get it hotter, and right on that "tight little isle" when this Christless civilization is visited with divine wrath. (Isaiah x, 1-8; Jer. xxv, 15). Vengeance is mine and I will repay, saith the Lord. According to their deeds will I recompense these bloody men and that will be hell enough. John Bull is a worse devil any day than the Kaiser. I know what that satanic Kaiser is just as well as I know what John Bull and his gang of liars are.

You bloody deceivers and oppressors, the Jew is a demonstration that the Bible is the sure word of prophecy. Before the Jews entered the promised land they were enjoined to do the square thing by the Lord or they would be scattered among all the nations (Lev. xxvi, 38; Deut. xxiv, 64). Yet you liars and oppressors imagine that you can have your high-handed way and divine retribution will never come near you. You are mortals and not gods and cannot escape the consequences of your bloody cussedness. Is there a single campaign pledge that Woodrow Wilson made to the voters in 1912 that he did not break? Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord, and their works are in the dark, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us and what we are up to? (Jer. xxix, 15). The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked; who can know it? I the Lord search the heart, I try the reins even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings (Jer. 9; 10). Recently Prof. Wilson was so unneutral as to try to get this nation into war with Germany in order to help out England. His mother was English, and all four of his grandparents were English. Not long after this British war on Germany is settled will come the next European war; Greece and Russia will boost the Turk over into Asia and that will stir Asia as Asia has never been stirred. Then will peace be taken from the earth—not just Europe and Asia, but America and the whole earth (Rev. vi, 4). Then there will be no peace for the wicked at any price (Isaiah 48; 22). That day the Lord will strike through kings in his wrath (Ps. 110; 5, 6). Come near, ye nations, to hear; and hearken, ye people; let the earth hear, and all that is therein: the world, and all things that come forth of it. For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his fury upon all armies: he hath utterly destroyed them, he hath delivered them to the slaughter. Their slain also shall be cast out, and their stink shall come up out of their carcasses, and the mountains (governments) shall be melted with their blood (Isaiah 34). The remainder of this chapter is fully discussed in "The Sign of the Lord's Coming." You men that trust in deception and oppression the prophecies of the Bible will be fulfilled in your cases as thoroughly as it was in the Jews. The Lord will plead with all flesh; He will give them that are wicked to the sword (Jer. xxv.). Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God; and not that he should return from his ways and live? When the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul (life) alive (Ezek. 18). When the wicked spring as grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish, it is then that they shall be destroyed forever (Ps. xcii, 7). Stupid, greedy humanity cannot see that destruction is about to overtake this rotten, shaky state of affairs.

The Political Situation.

You are marching straight right into hell with your eyes open—revolutions and anarchy in Europe, and panics and a crisis for law and order here. When that crisis hits you, you will want Roosevelt and not Wilson or Root or Hughes. In such a crisis the American people and Europe would have more confidence in that terrific fighter, Roosevelt, than any other man in the world. I do not want the Republicans to nominate Roosevelt; because in 1912 they robbed him of the nomination when the people wanted him. Let the Bull Moose bunch put him up and let the American fools come to their senses and make him President and get even with the Republicans for over-riding the will of the people in 1912. You would expect the measly, thieving Democrats to do such an under-handed job; but not the immaculate grand old Republican party that is owned soul and carcass by plutocratic Wall Street and rotten bosses.

Let Roosevelt's admiring enemies, the German, look ahead down the road and they will see that they need him. In sixty days after the expelling of the Turk from Europe the world will never have seen such a calamitous condition of affairs in one nation after another as will then suddenly culminate. It is appalling to see how blind and stupid the American people are. Wise? They are as wise as the old fools that made fun of Noah and his big boat-house and then got swallowed up by the flood. Roosevelt is our mightiest, most terrific fighter, and while Wilson or Root or Hughes would stand appalled and dumb-founded, strenuous Roosevelt would be in action like a cyclone. Come to your senses and make Roosevelt President.

It is time to tell this rotten world the truth. The climax to this corrupt, plutocratic, competitive system is near and will demonstrate to the world that this blundering, pork-grabbing, hypocritical, pro-British Wilson administration was a direful calamity for the white race. Wilson recently tried to force the United States into war with Germany to help out dear old Hingland. The American people have been treacherously deceived about England and the allies and neutrality and thus caused foully, monstrously to wrong Germany.

DIABOLICAL JOHN BULL

Will Not Allow Us to Send Food to These Starving, Outraged People.
Girls and Women Stripped and Outraged Before the Eyes of Their Fathers, Husbands and Brothers and then Burned to Death by the Soldiers.

And the lying newspapers here will not let the American people hear of these awful, horrible crimes of those beastly, fiendish barbarians because it would enrage the Americans against the allies.

Have you any heart? Then read this story and see how you feel. See if there was any reason except the devil's own infernal excuse why this nation prolongs this hell in Europe. Old Nero never equalled this, yet England tried to keep us from hearing of these devils' crimes.

Read this and see what you think of the papers here that suppress the news and particulars of such hellish crimes against hundreds of thousands of women because it would enrage the American people against Russia. Yet these lying papers pretend to give you the truth about the terrible state of affairs on this bloody earth.

I will stir up the lying politicians and their papers worse than Uncle Tom's Cabin woke up the slave-holders. You shall no longer deceive the sapheads here to help England and her allies.

The Most Hellish Atrocities of This War.

Much worse than the most exaggerated reports of Belgium and yet the papers will not let you hear of the crimes of those barbarians.

"The savage Cossacks locked whole congregations in the synagogues to which the frightened creatures had fled for safety.

"They then stripped and foully outraged the women and girls before the eyes of their fathers and husbands and brothers. When their lust was satiated they cut the women to pieces with their whips and put the men to death with savage tortures. In many instances they fastened the poor wretches in the synagogues and burned them all to death.

"Women, old and young, some with babes pressed to their bosoms, some about to become mothers, were stripped and knouted and outraged in broad day in the public squares, while Russian army officers looked on and jeered at the beastly inhumanity of their soldiery.

"Specific details of names, dates and places are given, showing that Jewish men were crucified, or covered with oil and burned alive, while these incarnate devils laughed and shouted in glee over the agonies of the tortured.

"Whole villages were driven beneath the blows of the knout to wander forth to die of hunger and cold, while their homes were given to the flames.

"Tens of thousands of inoffensive creatures were herded like cattle into boxcars, in the depth of the Russian winter, and left to freeze and starve and die. The sick, the feeble, the insane were all packed together in these cruel cars of death.

"The committee's confidential agents estimate that over THREE MILLION JEWISH MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN have been pillaged, robbed, their homes and crops burned and they themselves driven forth to wander in the fields and swamps, there to suffer and to die.

"It is the most hideous story of human savagery and human suffering that has ever stained the pages of history—and it is a shame and a disgrace that its horrible details have been concealed during all these months by the censors of the civilized nations which are in alliance with these Russian savages.

"There have been more inoffensive Jews exposed to death, robbery, outrage and terror than there are inhabitants in all Belgium. Yet the whole world has been made to ring with Belgium's story, while the censors and war boards of Christian England and France have not permitted a word to be told of the awful miseries endured by these millions of defenseless Jewish people under the whips and bayonets of the barbarians of the Russian steppes.

"It is time this conspiracy of silence was broken, time that the awful truth was made known, time that the American people learned what orgies of lust and frightful cruelty have devastated Galicia and Poland, time that Russia's savage government and savage officers and savage soldiery were no longer protected from the execration of the world because they are in alliance with civilized nations which are interested in concealing the barbarities of their allies.

—From N. Y. American, Feb. 2, 1916.

Show this article to Prof. Woodrow Wilson; because I have heard that he is interested in humanity. Tell him that that Englishman and Baptist minister, the Rev. Dr. Aked, was in Europe investigating the horrors there and Dr. Aked says: "The Belgian man or woman has not suffered as these people." Yet England will not allow food to be shipped by the Red Cross from America to these starving desolate people. Germany has offered to pay for food. Tell

Wilson to roll up his eyes and get off his prate about humanity to help England along in her war on Germany. Is there to be no divine retribution for John Bull and the Czar? Is there no power that can do unto these bloody men as they have done unto others? Vengeance is mine; I will do them up, said the Lord. The measure you mete, it shall be measured to you, John Bull. The day is not far away when no food can be shipped to England and it will not be German submarines.

John Bull Calls Himself the "Honest Ruler."

The Rev. Dr. Frank Crane Says: "England's Missions Is To Synthetize the world." Here is a Picture of Some of That Pirate's Synthetizing.

Ram Chandra, a Hindu (San Francisco), says: "In India an agriculturist is forced to pay 60 to 70 per cent of his produce to the government as land tax; consequently, the Hindus have become so poor that the average annual income of a Hindu is 27 rupees ($9.00), according to Lord Curzon, and 15 rupees according to Sir William Digby. India is poor because the English government drains from India five hundred million dollars ($500,000,000) every year over and above what is spent in India. One-third of India's revenue is spent on armaments and less than one-sixteenth is spent on education and sanitation. Nineteen millions died of famine and fifteen millions died of plague and malaria, according to Sir William Digby, in the last twenty years."—San Francisco Examiner, April 4, 1916. John Bull is the bloodiest, greediest oppressor of humanity that ever lived. Retribution and hell galore will be handed that bloody robber and pirate. Stupid humanity will get a waking up that there is going to be divine justice on this earth and you hypocrites down at Washington you can bet your lives on it that I am glad that day is near.

England Tied These People To Cannons and Blew Them To Pieces.

Because these natives tried to clean out the British rulers. Then John Bull blew a lot of the leaders from cannons in sight of the natives to terrify them and make them submit to their robberous rule and starvation. Millions of them were reduced to starvation and died under British liberty. Ireland was a prosperous country and England fixed that; exterminated their manufacturies; murdered, robbed and taxed them until they were reduced to poverty and starvation and the population cut in half. England is always murdering some one in the name of British liberty. England tried to do us up in two wars to give us some of that blasted liberty. We got a little taste of British liberty—the kind England has given Ireland for generations. It was great stuff. But George Washington could not stomach the concoction. Canada and Australia would had the same British liberty as Ireland if it had not been for George Washington and others that England called rebels. No wonder they do not like The Life of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, and "From the Log Cabin to the White House," in the London libraries. The lives of such men is "vulgar Americanism" and "blarstedly offensive" to the British stiff, the king, "don't yer know?" They may recently have condescended to admit them since this country is diabolically doing more for the allies than Japan and the administration is so pro-British as to submit to whatever Dear Old Hingland does to do up our commerce under the pretense of starving the Germans. No wonder the London Times calls the Americans "idiotic Yankees." Pretending to starve out Germany, so as to fool the Americans while they are doing up our commerce. Hearst gives it to them and the professor.

BRITISH ASSASSINATION OF IRISH PATRIOTS

To this day the Britishers are sorry that they were not able to do to George Washington what the brutal tyrants have just been doing to the patriots of Ireland in the name of the king and infernal British liberty.

Whenever Prof. Wilson uses the word humanity he means England. Prof. Wilson, all four of your grand-parents were British subjects and I am sorry you were not born a British subject also. You act more like a British flunkey to the British king than you do like an American. Much of your blood was so recently British that, like the British, you mistake gall for what Americans call honor. Down at Baltimoe for instance.

THE TYRANTS MURDER THE IRISH.

The Irish Showed Their Good Intentions Alright.

"The British Government has kept its military murderers steadily at work, and each day's cables have brought word of fresh executions, of killings that would shame savages, of wounded and shot-shattered prisoners being propped up on their broken limbs long enough for the executioners to riddle again with bullets the poor mangled bodies.

No wonder that every Irish heart thirsts for vengeance.

No wonder that the British propagandists who have prostituted American journalism and free speech to the unpatriotic object of dragging their own country into this war to do England's fighting have been shamed into temporary silence.

We should think that every one of these bootlickers, to say nothing of decent Englishmen, would blush to pronounce the name of Belgium again, would never open his mouth to talk of 'atrocities' or 'humanities' again.

With the blackened walls and tumbled ruins of Dublin echoing the volleys of firing squads shooting down surrendered prisoners whose crime was to love their native land and yearn for its independence and liberty, we hope, for decency's sake, that we shall hear no more snivelling in America over broken stained glass or shattered statues at Rheims and Louvain.

With the blood of Irish prisoners and patriots reddening poor Ireland's soil in streams, we hope, also for decency's sake, that we shall hear no more cant about England's passionate and heroic sympathy for the rights and liberties of little peoples.

With the spectacle of sorely wounded men propped up on their broken and shattered limbs to be shot to death, we hope, again for decency's sake, that there will be a final end of the cant about Britain's waging warfare for 'humanity's' sake.

We trust that from Mr. Wilson down to the Providence Journal—an all-embracing descent from the zenith of dissembled unneutrality to the nadir of indecent alien propaganda—there will be an end of the snivel and cant and humbug which have been so effectively belied by the governmental and military reprisals and cruelties and murders in unhappy Ireland.

We hope that the American people will never again be deluded to the point of willingness to waste American wealth and shed American blood in the contemptible role of catspaws to pull England's chestnuts out of the fire and ashes of a selfish and unsuccessful war, fought under the pretense of protection of the independence of little peoples and of the rights of neutrals and of the humanities.

Those Irish scholars, poets, patriots and martyrs for freedom's sake whose mangled bodies lie in bloody graves there in shot-riddled and flame-swept Dublin are the witnesses who give the lie to all the cant and humbug which England's American tools and propagandists have dinned in American ears to win America to plunge into England's war.

In that sense these martyrs have done a noble service to America, as well as to Ireland, by the sacrifice of their lives.

In the very instant of their deaths America drew back from the insidious and unpatriotic propaganda of armed alliance with England. We are confident that from this on that wicked and morally treasonable propaganda has no further powers of mischief.

The American people will now never permit themselves to be dragged into Europe's war as the ally and savior of the murderers of Ireland's patriots and martyrs.

The very stones in the streets would cry out against such an alliance with a Government that has shot down men for doing exactly what our own forefathers did when they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to the support of the Declaration of American Independence.

The signers of that declaration would have met the same merciless fate at the hands of the same British Government that the signers of Ireland's declaration of independence have just met had the British armies been able to overpower our fathers in arms.

One could almost believe that those fathers of ours would rise from their graves to rebuke their degenerate sons who would ally themselves with the slayers of men who were brave enough and devoted enough to risk their lives and their fortunes and their sacred honor in the great cause of human liberty.

The American who applauds these butcheries, the American who has no sympathy for these victims, the American whose heart does not go out in compassion for Ireland, and whose heart does not burn with indignation against those who have again trampled her liberties under foot and poured out the blood of her children as a sacrifice to subjection and oppression, is not fit to enjoy the liberties and to wear the bright badge of free citizenship which our rebel forefathers gained for us with arms in their manly hands.—N. Y. American, May 16, 1916.

There is a breed of Americans that glory in it that their Tory ancestors in this country during the Revolutionary war stood up for old rotten King Gorg and opposed George Washington. It is against the law to tar and feather them. The devil is not in hell; he is in New York City working for Russia and John Bull and calls it neutrality.

How London Reviled Abraham Lincoln.

John Bull was opposed to both sides having a fair hearing; that is why he cut the German cable. That is the same way he acted during the Civil War. Mr. Henry Adams, son and private secretary of Mr. Charles Francis Adams, our Minister Plenipotentiary to Great Britain during that critical era in our history, in that fascinating book of his entitled "The Education of Henry Adams," says: "London was altogether beside itself on one point, in especial; it created a nightmare of its own, and gave it the shape of Abraham Lincoln. Behind this is placed another demon, if possible more devilish, and called it Mr. Seward. In regard to these two men English society seemed demented. Defense was useless; explanation was vain. One could only let the passion exhaust itself. One's best friends were as unreasonable as enemies, for the belief in poor Mr. Lincoln's brutality and Seward's ferocity became a dogma of popular faith." You can see how prejudiced and unfair the English were about Lincoln and you are doing the very same thing to the Kaiser, believing the lying press. This war has demonstrated that John Bull is a liar and if he will lie about one thing he will lie about another, and that is why he went to war with Germany.

John Bull Shot Down Inoffensive Boer Women in the Name of British Liberty.

The Boers had valuable mines, and John Bull planned war to crush the Boers and get their mines. But the English people were opposed to that kind of war. So John Bull had to do something to stir the English people so that they would be willing to go to war against the Boers. England always aims to have it look as though she has the humanity side of the war. A member of Parliament, J. Ramsay MacDonald, tells how they stirred the British people so they would go to war against the Boers, by publishing lies in the Daily Mail, that the Boers were thrashing and flogging British women and children in South Africa. In the cause of humanity England went to war.

The British went to war with the Boers because of the lies that the British women and children were being flogged. But the real cause of the war was that the Boers had valuable mines, and they hung on to them, which enraged that notorious highway robber and assassin, who went down there and began killing off the Boers, burning their houses and laying the country desolate. Because some of the men would not surrender, John Bull shot down women. The British herded the women and children in camps, and the British admit that 14,000 died of starvation and disease. The Boers and Irish claim that about 25,000 died in those camps. Because some of the men would not surrender, the British would shoot into those camps and kill women and children. And when the men surrendered the British lined them up to be shot, and dragged their wives up and made them look on while they were shot. The war cost 250,000 lives and about $11,000,000,000. The hell and destruction that the British caused in South Africa was greater than what has been done to Belgium. That Britisher, C. H. Norman, says: "Even now Belgium has not been laid waste as the Boer republics were by Lord Kitchener and Lord Roberts."

The way John Bull shot down the Boer women and burned their homes and made them look on when he executed their husbands for fighting for their homes and property, proves that he is the same heathen he was when he armed thousands of Indians and turned them loose on our Ohio frontier and bought the scalps of our massacred people as though they had been wolf scalps, a tribe that must be exterminated. Read "Johnny Appleseed," of Harper Bros., 1915; it is a true and absorbing romance of a man who spent his whole life unselfishly bringing sunshine to those isolated settlers. He was through it all and saved scores of women and children from the savages that England had armed and urged on, even buying the scalps of our massacred settlers. You may as well expect a hungry lion to refuse to eat a fat sheep, as to expect the British lion to not be heartless and diabolical.

"What right did England have to destroy the Boer republic?"

"Assuming that the Boers gave foreigners few or no rights, is that any reason, from the American viewpoint, why any nation should send a huge army there to destroy the republic? Right here in the United States the Japanese, with true British instincts, want the right to buy and own land in California, equal with Americans. California has denied them such right. According to your correspondents, Japan's next move is the conquest of California. Every nation has the inherent right to say who shall and who shall not be citizens. Sovereignty, as the basis of ownership in all property, has the right to freeze out foreigners if the sovereign so desires. Did not Great Britain in British Guiana confiscate all oil rights, and through the provincial parliament pass a law making British citizenship an essential to owning such oil rights? An American citizen cannot buy or own oil rights in British Guiana to-day. The writer has in his possession a copy of this law.

"If the United States were to follow the very bad example set by England in South Africa it would send an army down to British Guiana to annex it, or, if the United States retaliated in kind upon British subjects, it would force every Englishman here to sell American property. Judging by what happened after, the Boers were right in protecting their property. Were Boer measures of self-protection a vice in South Africa, while similar British measures were a virtue in British Guiana? Let us be honest with ourselves. Let us be Americans if we wish to be right. We are hypocrites if as a republic we sympathize with monarchies. We adjured monarchy 138 years ago.

“WAYNE MORRIS.

“New York, November 10, 1914.”—From New York Globe.

ROTTEN ENGLAND.

That powerful British writer, Kipling, has already shown the genuine British honor by advocating the repudiation of England's debts incurred during this war. That is the kind of honor for which the British are so notorious and brag so about.

The Appalling Failure of British Liberty.

The Queen of England is George's Second Wife.

In England children are born out of doors and grow up with a roof over their heads and never know what it is to have a full belly. And that is your damned British civilization that you brag so about and want to pass around to curse humanity still more. O! think of it, they have a titled stiff, the king over them. But you must not tell the truth about his lefthand marriage; because that would offend his apron-string. Then the persons interested in that unlucky, lefthand affair must be made to swear it never, never was. No, you must not tell the truth about Gorg and his lefthand marriage. That would be libel, don't you know, and they would make it blarsted exasperating for you? Well, he is not the son of his father. His dad was a sport and never accused any one of libeling him, because they told the truth about him. If he had it would have kept him busy.

In England when a man dies his estate all goes to the oldest son and the rest of the family get kicked out of doors into the street and poverty. This keeps property from being divided up and makes a few snobs and millions of poor. The titled stiffs and rich men rule England, and the wealth is kept in the hands of a few.

The rottenest, shakiest civilization is British, excepting Mexico. It is well described in “The Catechism of Balaam, Jr.”: “Take England herself. Square mile after square mile of slums which represent the intensest and most continuous misery, the utmost degradation, the most appalling failure of civilization, to be found anywhere. Rural population disappearing, health and strength ditto. Remaining rural population divided between landlords who live on the rest, farmers whose political minds have been ossified into snobbish toryism for centuries, and laborers who dare not raise a voice in public affairs. A tory party of Bourbon folly, a “Liberal” party existing for the big manufacturers and ruled by the Rothschilds, Sassoons and Samuelses through secret party funds. Nowhere else, indeed, as they boast, does liberty flourish as in England and her possessions, thank God!”

"Britain Warned of Her Peril," Revolution, in 1912.

Beset With Strikes and Taxes, Facing Danger of Hungry People,

John L. Eddy wrote an article: "What is the Matter With England?" He mentioned the increasing cost of living and taxes and the discontent of labor and agitation and said: "Every Sunday thousands of workingmen with huge banners march either through Trafalgar Square or Hyde Park playing the 'Marseillaise' and cheering socialism."

Then he quoted from an article on "The Future of the British Race," by Henry Page Croft, M. P., in the London Outlook. Mr. Croft pointed at some length how the United States and Germany and Japan had forged ahead and England was dropping behind. Then he said: "There is only one certainty about this position, and that is unless something happens, the sun of the British Isles must set."—From N. Y. American, June 23, 1912.

Long before this war, Dr. Forbes Winslow, one of England's foremost alienists, said: "There is no doubt that England is going to the dogs, and that much quicker than most people would imagine. The difficult part of the problem is to get the nation to realize that we are rapidly moving toward the downward path, and to take the proper steps to apply the brake before it is too late." Then he gave figures about the increase of criminals.

John Bull Was Having Such Domestic Troubles That He Went To War To Get Relief.

The ferocious suffragettes of England were burning depots and churches, residences and other buildings; burning and destroying mail; pouring molasses into letter boxes; destroying masterpieces of art so that public galleries had to be closed; breaking plate-glass windows; mobbing officials; breaking into the Queen's castle and terrorizing her. They did not know what next would happen. But the Queen can rest now; by going to war they have stopped all this unrest and agitation and all without granting female suffrage. And in an interview to a New York American, Miss Cristabel Pankhurst said she believed this war would sweep away all barriers to female suffrage in England. It is a ferocious brand of suffragettes that would welcome this war as a means of securing the ballot. American women are not that kind. King Edward said: "Why cannot our women be smart like the American women." If our ladies want to vote, I am not one to deny them that right. John Bull was having such domestic troubles that he was glad to go to war to get relief.

That American, John L. Stoddard, the famous traveller, author and lecturer on the different countries of the world, was in Europe when war broke out. He says: "You know that last July the fate of the English Government was critical. A civil war was imminent in Ulster. Shots had been fired in Dublin. The Cabinet knew that any day the ground might sink beneath their feet. Hence, eager to avert internal trouble, they grasped with joy the long-awaited opportunity to join with others (for England never fight a European power alone), in ruining German commerce and destroying the German fleet. How can England, of all nations, talk of violating international rights? Her wars in Asia, Africa and Egypt have been waged for conquest and the carrying out of her imperial policy. Think of her war against the Boers, universally reprobated abroad and largely condemned at home!"

John Bull wanted this war more than any other nation. In 1914 he had the jimjams, he knows. You pirate, the summer of 1914 your rotten affairs were shaking, wabbling; your queen was in terror and your lump of dirt was overshadowed with gloom as dark as your cockney fogs. You welcomed this war with both hands. Even your belligerent female suffrage convicers welcomed it. Retribution aplenty will come home to you for your bloody deeds. The mills of the gods may be a little slow in starting up; but when the grinding is through almighty John Bull will have kissed the dust. The nations that forget God shall be turned into the grave, that is hell (Ps. ix, 17).

The Allies and Humanity.

What is Russia but a medieval and tyrannical autocracy and a corrupt and tyrannical bureaucracy imposed upon a mass of wretched slaves? Where is there a government so faithless, so unscrupulous, so cruel and so barbarous?

For four hundred years, by force, and by perfidy, the Russian autocracy has stamped out the independence, the religion, and even the very language and literature of one small and helpless people after another. Look at what Russia has done to Poland, to Finland, to Courland, to Bassarabia, to Persia, to every weak province or State upon which she could lay her tyrant hands.

Does any man in the possession of his senses pretend to believe that democratic government, individual liberty and the great cause of civilization would be secured by prostrating more territory and more people in Europe under the heel of this wicked, savage, medieval and semi-barbarous Russian autocracy and bureaucracy?

As to any of the allies being at war for the preservation of neutral small States, that is exactly what the King of Greece styles it—'cant.'

The King of Greece knows what respect England, France, Italy and Russia are paying to the neutral rights and territory of Greece.

They have seized his seaports, occupied his islands, forcibly blockaded his merchant ships, destroyed his railroads and bridges, attempted to incite revolution against his rightful authority and hold Greece captured against the will of her sovereign and her people.

The excuse is that military necessity demands the violation of Greek neutrality, that all they want is free passage for their troops and secure landing points for reinforcements and that they will pay for the damage they do when their temporary occupation is over.

And those are word for word, letter for letter, the exact demands made upon Belgium by Germany, and the exact excuses and promises made by Germany when she violated Belgian neutrality.

If the King of Belgium had acted in the fact of overwhelming force as the King of Greece has acted, Belgium would be in the same condition as Greece is to-day—occupied in contempt for her rights and her sovereignty by armed forces, but with the people unhurt by battle and war.

And if the King of Greece had acted as did the King of Belgium and offered armed resistance to the allies' violation of Greek neutrality, Greece, as her King truly says, would have been by now another Belgium.

Some time, when they cool off, a lot of Americans will realize that they have been indulging in hysteria and neglecting their usual common sense for the past year or so."—February 3, 1916.—N. Y. American.

Wilson's hypocrisy about humanity is raw cant to help England rule-or-ruin, and in this case it sure is ruin for all. If the American fools ever wake up to how they have been deceived about England and see what they have done by helping that diabolical British Government, demagogue Roosevelt will have to cut out his ranting about the hyphen. When that ranting demagogue insists that England indemnify the Boers and get out of the Boers country he will have shown a disposition to be just in European affairs and not before. Germany must not do in self-defense what England does to extend her empire. But what the American people should wake up to, is the crisis that is coming in about three years after this war. Roosevelt is the man they want on the job then, and not Hughes or Wilson. This nation should have years ago and during this war heeded Hearst. When Hearst ran for mayor the last time, Wall Street and Tammany Hall and the grafting politicians and saloon-keepers and white-slavers and pickpockets of New York City worked against Hearst. That was a first class recommendation that the city needed him. The robbers would not have got millions out of the subways if he had been elected. Rotten American politicians must want this civilization to go to pieces. Rotten American politics is what rules here. That is the American government. Rotten things always go to pieces. In England and all Europe there was great discontent before this war, and in three years with their taxes it will be more discontent than ever. And the longer the war lasts, the worse it will make it. Europe cannot long ward off revolutions and anarchy. That will cause the biggest panic here; lawlessness will follow. I tell you Roosevelt is the man you want to deal with it. I never have voted for that demagogue. But you will need him and not Wilson or Hughes.

How Treacherous John Bull Was Forced to Grant the Boers Self-Government.

"It is one of the terms of surrender by the Boers that self-government would be granted; but the British militarists would never have kept that undertaking but for the insistence of Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, the 'Chad-band' who denounced the South African campaign, in speech after speech, to your furious indignation.

What Is Neutrality?

Our Ambassador to Germany during our war with Spain, Andrew D. White, said: "The American Consul at Hamburg having notified me that a Spanish vessel, supposed to be loaded with arms for use against us in Cuba, was about to leave that port, I hastened to the Foreign Office and urged that vigorous steps be taken, with the result that the vessel, which in the meantime had left Hamburg, was overhauled and searched at the mouth of the Elbe. The German Government might easily have pleaded, in answer to my request, that the American Government had generally shown itself opposed to any such interference with the shipment of small arms to belligerents, and had contended that it was not obliged to search vessels to find such contraband of war."—From his Autobiography.

Christ said: Blessed are the peacemakers. No, with Prof. Woodrow Wilson, it is blessed are the infernal ammunition devils that have helped my dear old Hingland. Prof. Wilson recently tried to get this country into war with Germany to help out England.

With Prof. Woodrow Wilson it was not neutrality to loan to Germany and Austria; but it was neutrality to loan to England. That man is a liar and a hypocrite who says the infernal deal this country has handed Germany is neutrality, and I do not care how little is his head, and big his conceit and brilliant his rhetoric and loud his prate about the law of humanity.

Representative Mann, Republican leader of the House, said: "Message shows Wilson expects to force war with Germany."—N. Y. American.

Senator Vardamann said: "I think to go to war for the reasons President Wilson assigned would be wholly unjustifiable. Just why Germany should be held to strict accountability for every infraction of international law while the allies are permitted to do anything their cupidity and advantage may suggest, I cannot understand. I think this Government ought to be neutral and that the contending forces should be treated with equal consideration."—N. Y. American.

Germany Is Handed a Diabolical Brand of Neutrality by the American Hypocrites.

In the backwoods a neighbor sang out to a woman, "Say, your ole man is in a fight with a bear out there." The woman answered: "Well, I do not care which licks." And she refused to help either her husband or the bear. Now that was real neutrality. When you insist upon supplying to one side what enables it to carry on the war you are not neutral. To be neutral you must not supply to either side the help without which it could not carry on the war. But because you have made this country the base of supplies for John Bull and his varigated, revengeful and barbarous allies to blow Germans into hell, you insist that to be neutral you have got to keep on being unneutral. The Mexicans might just as well say that they have got to keep on killing Americans or they cannot be rebels. It is the same infernal logic; the devil's own monstrous lie; diabolic sophistry. Now you British maniacs that cuss the Kaiser in your sleep, let out your howls about "nagging" the flunkey.

WHY DO YOU NOT BRAG ABOUT THAT FINE DEMOCRATIC TARIFF

A conceited theorist put the country industrially and financially on the bum by turning the balance of trade against us. So that when John Bull got this war going the country was in such a demoralized condition industrially and financially that we had to feed this hell in Europe to better our own economic condition. We had to furnish the implements to keep that hell going because we were on the bum by a fool tariff—a tariff that Hearst had always opposed because it eliminated reciprocity and the American workman.

The Wilson Administration Is a Lamentable Fiasco.

"After the Wilson tariff law, the balance of trade set strongly against this country, and at the opening of the war the balance of trade against us amounted to something like $200,000,000. Our factories were closing, our banks and business enterprises were cramped for money, and the Government, like many individuals, found expenses greater than income.

"Then came the war in Europe. Every foreign nation wanted gold. Our debt for the goods imported in such a flood under the Wilson tariff was payable in gold or goods. Our exports, being shut off during the early days of hostilities, could not begin to discharge any considerable portion of this debt. In a few weeks more than $100,000,000 in gold was shipped, and our financial situation was unmistakably dangerous."—N. Y. American, November 19, 1914.

We never had a Democratic tariff yet that did not play hell with the industries of the country and the U. S. Treasury. That is one of the main reasons why we had to have a war tax. As Hearst wrote, September 20, 1914: "War or no war, the Democratic party's tariff policies were proving failures. Before war in Europe was declared, or even contemplated, the balance of trade was showing immensely against this country. Our export balance had decreased over a quarter of a billion dollars in seven months. Gold was being exported in quantity. The income tax had proved insufficient to compensate for the reduction in the tariff revenues. Foreign goods were coming into our country, perhaps not in sufficient quantities to raise an adequate governmental revenue under the reduced rate of taxation, but certainly in sufficient quantities to deprive our American manufacturers of their home market and our American laborers of employment.

"American men out of employment were parading the streets. American business men in bankruptcy were putting up their shutters. American factories were closing and discharging their employees, and, instead of America shipping more goods abroad than before the reduction of the tariff, America was importing more and shipping less, with the balance of trade going more and more to our disadvantage". . . .

He Wished a Lion Had Gotten Roosevelt.

This war has been a godsend to this bungling administration. A business man down south while explaining, before this war, how the different industries there had been crippled by this tariff, said: "Personally I have nothing against Theodore Roosevelt, but I wish a lion had got him while he was in Africa. It was his personality that defeated Taft and gave us a college professor, a master of rhetoric and a theorist, and this fool tariff has tied me up tight." Before this war this tariff shut up factories here and did not lower the cost of living, and it caused a heavy trade balance against this country which necessitated heavy gold shipments to Europe and was very disastrous. Men in Louisiana worked to elect Wilson and then went out and committed suicide after the fool tariff was handed them. It did not reduce the price of sugar; but it reduced the revenue to the government $60,000,000 per annum. Those who voted for Roosevelt and for Taft voted for protection and far outnumber those who wanted a "change." So it is a minority administration as well as one of unprecedented gall. And remember that I have not forgotten that we had Teddy Roosevelt. This administration has not encouraged home production except in implements of hell to destroy human life, and it is more anxious about selling ammunition and delivering it than about selling cotton. This tariff turned the trade balance against us which was only overcome by the bloodiest war in history. Therefore this carnage in Europe is a godsend to this bungling administration, which deserves to be buried good and deep.

When the revolutions start and keep spreading it will cause a big panic and consternation in New York and this country—so many will rush to get their money out of the banks. Then it will be seen that Woodrow Wilson was the worst fizzle ever in the White House. If he had not disregarded the custom of his party he could not have gotten the nomination, but Clark. And if he had not disregarded the choice and will of his party as expressed through the primary laws of the American people, he could not have been president. The donkey is the emblem of the Democratic party, but in this case the emblem got into the White House instead of Clark. A small, conceited man in a big place. Unprecedented gall, sophistry, buncombe, twaddle and pork-grabbing and British interests—right or wrong always for British interests is the policy of this disastrous administration.

See him dig up that antiquated British ceremony and go down and read his compositions to the boys at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue to gratify his pedagogic importance. Well, Roosevelt did not have to send his physiog along with his messages to convince those youngsters that he was on the job. But then Roosevelt wears a much larger hat and has always gone after something more strenuous than school-teaching. If you want to see shifty Wilsonism exposed, get my big book and read about that conceited little bragger, the tail that wags the dog in our navy department. Garrison discovered that this is an administration of small men and that is why he got out.

You Washington, D. C., boneheads, how do you like what Hudson Maxim says? Here it is: "One of our great troubles is with our governing force, which is away below the average for intelligence. Most of it is about on a level with the intellectuality that gathers about a red-hot stove in a country town on a very cold night."—N. Y. American.

ROTTEN, ROTTEN AMERICAN POLITICS!

Where is There Anything More Rotten Than American Politics?

Where? Down in Mexico and That Went to Pieces Like Rotten Things Always Do.

Our government is notorious for inefficiency and corruption. Since this Mexican trouble on the border Sam Blyth of San Antonio, Texas, has discovered that up to August 1914, the United States army cost as much as the German army. The rotten republican and democratic politicians have got to get their snouts into the United States Treasury. It is not the army that costs so much; it is our rotten, grafting politicians that steal. The democrats paid 18 millions for Panama land not worth more than a million and General Goethal's exposure of this steal they cut out of his report before allowing his report to go to Congress.

American sapheads, think of it, up to August, 1914, we spent as much on an army as Germany, and Germany had four million trained soldiers with efficient equipment to show for her money. And we did not have enough U. S. soldiers to police the Mexican border; had to call on the state militia and had flying machines that would not fly and machine guns that were as unreliable as Professor Woodrow Wilsons campaign pledges to the voters.

The late Alfred Henry Lewis wrote: "To-day, as twenty years ago, during the Cleveland regime, the country is being run by Wall Street. Now as then Big Money is in the saddle. Also Big Money means not only American money, but English money; and is as much the alias of Lord Cowdray and S. Pearson & Son, as it is of Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hill and Mr. House. . . . You are inclined to challenge the assertion. Take a look backward glance. Wasn't the New Haven muddle in its last arrangement adjusted to suit the wish of Big Money? Wasn't the telephone troubles settled upon plans submitted by Big Money? Isn't the Union Pacific just now splitting up an improper $85,000,000 as an alleged dividend because Big Money insists? As irons still in the fire, Big Money counts the Panama Canal (repeal of free tolls), the 5 per cent. freight rate advance and the rescue of the Steel Trust from dissolution or dismemberment. Big Money looks forward in these affairs to a triangle of triumphs.

Get at it by the Socratic method upon the hope that you have not read your Plato for fun. Doesn't Mr. Wilson, during his New York City visits, stop at the home of Mr. House? Isn't Mr. House, when in Washington, as much at home in the White House as Mr. Wilson? Can anyone to-day climb the White House back stairs without bumping into Mr. House in the dark? Aren't Mr. Morgan, of Wall and Broad, and Lord Cowdray, of England and Mexico, the partners of Mr. House? Don't all these names mean the railroads, together with the bonds and stocks thereof?"—From the N. Y. "American."

Since Mr. Lewis wrote this, the free tolls for American ships have been repealed and the 5 per cent. freight rate increase has been secured and no one has expected the Steel Trust to be dissolved, not after the way our politicians run the courts and the administration.

Boodle Rules To-Day.

Mr. Lippman in his "A Preface to Politics," says: "Ours is a problem in which deception has become organized and strong; where truth is poisoned at its source; one in which the skill of the shrewdest brains is devoted to misleading a bewildered people." Have you forgotten the exposures Hearst gave of how that saintly Standard Oil controlled U. S. senators and other officials. During the last twenty years the man who has been around and not seen vote-buying or heard men say: They took his money and he had a right to get something for it—I say the man who has not seen vote-buying or heard men openly talking about what different men got for their votes, he must be very obtuse, whether in Chicago or New York or Jersey or West Virginia or Ohio. Terre Haute, Ind., or Danville are not the only places votes are bought and sold. It is a common thing to get the offices, before and after. In Chicago, when Bryan ran the second time, I saw that some one was buying votes and stepped up to a man and said some one is buying votes here. I stood off and watched a little longer and that very man I had spoken to was the one who was passing out the dough. Now brag like a hypocrite that this rotten republic is free. What does your vote amount to with a rotten gang down at Washington? See how McReynolds, when he was Attorney General, sat upon the lid and tried to prevent the exposure of the gang that looted the New Haven Railroad and Mr. Wilson boosted that kind of a man on to the U. S. Supreme bench. What rules down there?

How We Got That Famous American Beauty Known as Mr. Standard Oil.

"Hundreds of small business men were cruelly crushed by the soulless Rockefeller Juggernaut and thrown into bankruptcy and idleness. Rivals having been thus heartlessly ruined, the monster gorged itself on the public's money, charging prices that meant more millions for Rockefeller than he could count."—Mr. Forbes in N. Y. American.

It was the younger Mr. Rockefeller who charmed his Bible class with the metaphor of the trusts and the American beauty rose. Just as the single rose in its fullest beauty could be produced only by pinching off all other buds that formed upon its parent stem, so the industrial corporation in its fullest efficiency, as for example the Standard Oil Company, can be formed only by pinching off and throwing into the pit of bankruptcy all competitors that threaten its supremacy. So argued Mr. Rockefeller to the disciples that heard him gladly.

John D. Rockefeller is a well-known patriot, whose relations with United States Senators as disclosed by the correspondence of his business associate, John D. Archbold, greatly illuminated some mysteries of American politics. Indeed, the people should be grateful that the whole Government is not pinched off that the Rockefeller fortune may reach its fullest efflorescence.—From N. Y. American, April 28, 1914.

See how the bountiful philanthropists used the soldiers to crush the miners in Colorado. Bountiful, generous philanthropists that never pay taxes if there is a way to keep from it. There is no glory in paying taxes.

Trust-Controlled Judges.

See how the United States Supreme Court exceeded its constitutional prerogatives and had the temerity to do some legislating on the side for Mr. Standard Oil by inserting the word "Reasonable," which Congress had refused to do to help out that greedy concern. The dissenting judge was right about that job. A while back a government tax on gasoline was recommended. Mr. Standard Oil reserves all rights there are to tax that precious oil and to convince the consumers keeps boosting the price. That is how Mr. Standard Oil is being "reasonable." Justice Hughes, when he was Governor of New York, demonstrated that he would not loosen up the grip of oppressive Wall Street and so vetoed the 2c. a mile fare bill. If Congress wants to let in the light in New York, let Congress start a dead-in-earnest investigation of the New York Central Railroad. Hughes was harmless to such rapacious interests.

Big Wall Street Crooks Purposely Caused the Panic of 1907.

In 1907, a surly robber of Wall Street wanted to organize a Steel Trust, but Roosevelt would not consent; so the gang, bound to rule or ruin, the panic of 1907 was engineered to force him to give in. To start the panic one of the partners went to a N. Y. City plutocratic daily and had inserted a notice that the Knickerbocker Trust Co. was in bad; that started the run, and after it had spread to other banks, Roosevelt caved in. The robbers cleaned up over sixty millions on the sale of water. That is sowing to the wind. By and by we will reap a whirlwind of vengeance. Such lawlessness begets lawlessness.

The Rotten and Robberous Railroads.

It costs a certain amount to build and equip a railroad, and under the competitive system that road is entitled to interest on that investment and the expenses of operating and upkeep. The road is entitled to that much for service, and however enormous the traffic may be the road is not entitled to any more than it costs to render that service, that is interest on investment, expenses of operating and upkeep. But that was not the way. As the old Vanderbilt put it: "The public be damned." And as Collis P. Huntington gaged the rates: "All the traffic will bear." Business was to charge all the traffic could stand up under and then issue stocks to the amount that the income of the road could pay a dividend on in prosperous times.

The biggest California oranges that grow sold on the fruit-stands there, April, 1916, for 20 and 25c a dozen; get back to New York and pay 7c each for the same oranges and it is not the N. Y. fruit stands that get the difference. The California fruitgrowers and the people are robbed.

Joseph N. Teal, of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, testified before the Senate Committee on the Inter-oceanic Canals that: "Twenty-five per cent. of the fruit crop annually is permitted to rot because we cannot get it to the eastern markets at rates that justify gathering in. The fruit business in time must collapse unless we get rid of our enormous waste. If we had lower rates, a market for lower grades of fruit would develop and the people would have the advantage of cheaper fruit." Honest, hard-working people must lose much of the fruits of their labor, because unscrupulous men pumped in the water, and rates have got to be higher than they should be because of the water.

The American people are paying hundreds of millions every year in fares and freight rates because of watered railroad stocks that is just legalized robbery.

"Our American public life has been corrupted until we have almost ceased to have confidence in the honesty of anybody. Many of our business men have been made cowards, and our courts have been caused to forfeit public confidence, and thoughtful men made to fear for the existence of the Republic itself by reason of the unequal distribution of wealth and power through the private operation of our railroads and other public service corporations."—New York American, March 15, 1915.

"The President's gift of fifty millions a year to the railroads. The spectacle of the President and his Cabinet lobbying for the railroads is not a pleasing one. No Tammany deal with managers of public service corporations in New York was ever more discreditable and no discrimination against railroads which we wrecked by criminal directors like the New Haven and the Rock Island."—N. Y. American, Dec. 15, 1914.

Wilson's Financial Legislation for the Bankers.

"When Mr. Wilson was pushing through the rejuvenated Aldrich bill, fresh from the Wall Street typewriters, many Congressmen urged that provision should be made for the farmers as well as big business. Mr. Wilson refused to have anything interpolated in the Wall Street document. Inquiry has recently demonstrated, as given in an official report, that more than three thousand national banks, to whom the government loans funds at four per cent., are charging their customers double this rate. And the same report shows that more than a thousand national banks charge from ten up to one hundred and twenty per cent. per annum, making the farmers practically their slaves. Because Mr. Wilson turned down every request to provide for these in his Federal Reserve bill, the farmers are today fully alive to the character of the man. A change of heart at this late date will not re-establish him in the confidence of the farmers."—John Brisben Walker in the N. Y. American, January 12, 1916.

Commission Men and Combines Rob Producer and Consumer.

See how the robbers boosted the prices of food as soon as the war started. See how they made the poor of N. Y. City pay as high as $20 a ton for coal. "Increased prices caused by the intervention between producer and consumer of monopolistic intermediaries, trusts or forestallers of markets, taking for themselves all the tribute extorted from the consumer and giving the producer no share of the higher profits, are unnatural and wholly hurtful. Those engaged in the operation are criminals as burglars or murderers are criminals. They should be made to pay the penalty of their crimes, and they should be made to understand right now, before prosecution, before investigation even, that they can no more compound their sentences in the event of conviction by payment of a fine than a murderer can in the same way escape the gallows."—N. Y. American, Aug. 28, 1914.

These Immaculate Cusses and Muckraking.

Whenever one exposes these big cusses and their "damnable rascality," some of their champions shout muckraking! The City of New York will have to spend more than one hundred millions to finish its subways. Yet the big crooks fixed it so the city will get no income before 1954. And just remember, Tweed was sent up for the little jobs he did. Is not justice a farce today? Hearst is still fighting the gang that he has always fought. Yes, it is muckraking to expose such men and their puppets in office. Well, the people will do worse than muckraking when the after-clap of this British war on Germany hits us. Plutocratic lawlessness has about reached its height in this British war on Germany. For Wall Street is in it too.

Judge Gary, that coat of whitewash you applied a while back is getting pretty streaked. Judge Gary said: "It is our duty to disabuse the public mind of the idea that men of prominence, of wealth, of leadership in finance and industry are inimical to the public interest, and to convince people in general that they are doing things that really advance the best interests of the country."—From N. Y. American. Yes, Judge, it is time to slather on more whitewash.

Voters, the New York American is my political New Testament. Judge Gary is at the head of a beneficent institution that had water pumped into it and then squeezed out and pumped in some more—in all about fifteen hundred million dollars' worth. So the Judge is in a position to fully appreciate what these bountiful cusses have done for the best interests of the country and especially the workingmen and the dear public. A robberous tariff and Winchester helped the original concern which was also efficiently nurtured by an elaborate rebate system, of course all for the best interests of the country.

Big Robbers Do Not Go to Jail.

They are financial prodigies and immune from the law that applies to the small fry. For thirty years prior to 1903 the New Haven R. R. paid 8 to 10 per cent. dividends. It runs through a populous and rich territory. Its shares sold for $240 per share. Many widows invested all their savings in New Haven stock because it had paid so well for years. There were more than 22,000 stockholders. In 1903 the Wall Street crooks got control of New Haven and in 10 years had piled upon that road 321 million dollars liabilities, and it not only did not pay dividends but was not quite earning its fixed charges, and the roadbed and equipment had deteriorated so that wrecks were frequent, killing 54 persons and maiming over 400. "During the period when most of the press of the country was lauding Morgan as an inspired financier, a builder, not a wrecker, a great philanthropist and a public spirited citizen, the New York American and the Boston American—the two Hearst papers in the territory most immediately affected—were describing him as Mr. Mellen's testimony shows he really was—a rapacious dictator, with a mania for monopoly and its fruits, brow-beating his financial associates and robbing the public at the same time, and treading as far on the dangerous side of the criminal law as high-priced lawyers, skilled in law-evasion, would permit."—From N. Y. American, May 20, 1914.

"The devil is a roaring lion, going around, seeking whom he may devour." Now that is not from the New York Journal.

A while back that Morgan bunch said they did not get the loot. At that time I said if some one else had beaten the Boss to it there would have gone up a howl that would have shaken Wall Street and made them think the Judgment Day had come. The exposures leave no doubt as to who got the lion's shares. A robber who steals millions must not have the goods taken from him like the small fry that steals a purse with $50 in it. It is a sacrilege to expose the big robber; he is a financial king, but Hearst's dailies call them looters and pirates.

"Why should the biggest man in Wall Street stay out of jail when it is perfectly clear that he is a thief and should be in jail with the others? Is not a rich man guilty of theft MORE criminal than the poor man with his great temptation and dire necessity?"—From N. Y. Journal, Oct. 3, 1914.

Steal $50 and you are looked upon with contempt and sent up for being a cheap skate. Steal $60,000,000 and you are not locked up: no, you are a wizard of finance and shell out a little to the politicians and judges. They will not interfere with a man of your calibre. That would be interfering with business, don't you know? Sixty millions that is legitimate thrift. So do not be a cheap skate or you deserve to be sent up. The rotten Subway exposures just now demonstrate that if you are not a piker like Tweed, you will be looked upon as a big and important man.

To send a few of the recent robbers of the New Haven road to the Federal penitentiary would, indeed, be a disturbance to business—the too common business of stealing from the stockholders of a railroad all that their stock represents.

"The trouble with this country is with the big men that rule. Bribes, corruption, threats, promises are their weapons. . . . The big men are the criminals, instigators of crime, givers of bribes, corruptors of government. Rottenness in office is their work."—N. Y. Journal, July 25, 1912.

Lincoln as a Prophet.

President Lincoln a short time before his assassination, in a letter to a friend in southern Illinois made a prophesy, which was published about 1872, in a paper in Washington, D. C., called Columbia. President Lincoln wrote: "I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption in high places will follow and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until the wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war."

At the time some of you big robbers were engineering the panic of 1907, Hetty Green, the financier, in an interview to the N. Y. World, said: "The financial situation is going to the devil. Poor people are suffering all around us. Stock watering is in everything. The innocent are being squeezed. There was a time the oppressors of the innocent went to jail. It is ruinous. Young men of the present day will know what it is; you all will be fighting soon and not a foreign foe."

A retired banker: "We in America are moving fast toward social revolution. Conflicts between labor and capital are assuming the proportions of civil war."—Frederick Townsend Martin. The coal miners' strike in Colorado and West Virginia have been of that nature. In 1898, after the coal miners in Illinois went on a strike and lost, several thousand of them went out through the farming section and helped themselves to the farmers' cattle and hogs and dug up potatoes. Too big a bunch for a farmer to stop. In the last strike in Pennsylvania the miners wanted to enforce conditions that would damage the mines, which the native-born miner opposed; so the foreigners held meetings excluding the native American. Such cattle as that is only fit to be ruled by the bayonet.

The Champion Muckraker!

Nineteen Hundred years ago there was a man on earth who was worse than a muckraker. He said, you have made my fathers house a den of thieves, and he upset their junk and goods and drove out the gang. I would enjoy seeing him show up in this country. Would not our rank demagogues and lying, grafting politicians and the robbers of Wall Street and that bloodiest of all pirates and assassins, John Bull and the bloody rulers of Europe quake and snarl? That British stiff, the king, and his bloody, tyrannical men can plot and plan to get war and then they can sit back and order their men to go in and be fodder for the cannons and slaughter each other; but they are safe, and divine wrath will not hand it to them, and pay them back in their own bloody coin. We will see and that in the near future. You devils do believe and will yet quake and tremble (Jas. 2:15).

"The lion (Rev. v:5) implies the function of domain. This is not only the direction of authority, but the formulation of the system over which authority is exercised. To stand under, or understand the voice of the lion, which is the voice of authority, is to come into structural relationship and subjection to the force of organic unity and form. The voice of thunder, which is the voice of the divine command and the roar of the lion, will cause a quaking of the other beasts of the field. If the lion in this case is the power of the divine dominion, all other dominions will quake and tremble at this voice of authority. . . . Thus thunder of John's symbolic language begins with a divine declaration in the heavens."—740, p. 131: Isaiah xxxi: 8, 9.

Labor and Capital.

What makes civilization so shaky? It is because there is no justice in the world. It is robbery and robbery and oppress the people.

Robbing the producer and consumer is what is wrong. There is no justice. Any system that enables a man to enrich himself from others labor is robbery. The labor question will never be settled until it is adjusted on the basis of absolute justice. That is, Labor shall get what it produces and not some hog in human form. War and poverty will continue to curse the earth until labor gets what it produces. Civilization will be bloody and shaky until men will be willing to be of service to the world and not take more than their service is worth as the millionaires and titled stiffs of Europe do. Civilization has got to come to it and the revolutions and destruction just ahead will force them to it with a vengeance. When the after-clap of this British war on Germany hits us it will cause a panic and consternation in this country. It will appal the immaculate cusses of Wall Street that are directly to blame for this wars lasting so long.

World Federation to Abolish War.

Human nature is selfish. If you want to abolish war there must be love between man and man. They must be tied together by love. The Allies to-day are tied together by selfish interests—not love, but devilish selfishness. How are you going to tie men together when selfishness rules the world? To talk about a United States of Europe is sheer foolishness. You cannot tie men together by scraps of paper or a body of men meeting at the Hague. A man hires Pinkerton men to shoot down his striking laborers and uses the nefarious rebate system to cut the throats of his competitors, and after he has made his pile he throws bouquets at himself by separating himself from a few lumps of his ill-gotten loot as a philanthropist. Bah! Bountiful philanthropists swell around with their untold and untaxed millions and thousands of wage-slaves are walking around on their uppers, and you expect to tie men together and abolish war. You cannot see straight. Your world federation would work like a rope of sand. Civilization is on the verge of the bloodiest catastrophe that can overtake it and you cannot bring stupid humanity to their senses.

You editors who are stirring the people to back England are rushing them headlong to destruction, which will overtake them soon enough without your blind help. You need not damn me because things are rotten and shaky. Supplying ammunition to England is only making your own destruction that much easier. Cataclysms destructive of many, many millions have come in the past and another is almost due. Many centuries hence will be another. This has been the order of things and will be until a large part of humanity ceases to live on the propagative plane and the world is ruled by love instead of capitalism and devilish selfishness. Competitism is the house founded upon the sands of individualism. Soon come the storm of class and race vengeance. And the rain descended and the floods came and beat upon that house and it fell and great was the fall of it (Matt. vii, 27).

Anarchists and Capital Punishment.

I believe in short shift for men that want to overthrow law and order or that take the law in their own hands. Capital punishment is proper and should be the rule instead of the exception for murders. Some say of society, "Thou shalt not kill!" A man has a right to kill another in self-defense and murder is a crime against the life of society. Society should defend itself by taking the life of the murderer. Because the victim could not kill his assailant is no reason why he should be allowed to live; it is the very reason why society should execute that murderer, who has forfeited his right to live. Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed (Gen. 9; 6). Those who want to abolish capital punishment are too maudlin for these shaky times.

Labor and the Money Power.

The First National Bank of New York was founded in 1863 with a half a million capital. In thirty-nine years that bank raked in twenty-one millions dividends. In 1901 capital was raised from half a million to ten millions and in ten years it produced twenty-five millions dividends. That is robbery—nothing but robbery. Abraham Lincoln said: "Labor is prior to and independent to capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves much higher consideration." Money of itself never increases. It is always some man's labor that brings the increase, adds to it. So interest is one man producing and another getting the increase. If a man has a chance to make a big thing but needs more capital and goes to the bank, the chances are that the banker insists on such a big rake-off that the bank gets most of it, 10 to 120 per cent. That is the banking business. While the hell-born competitive system exists, money will be necessary. But that will not be long now.

Wage-Slaves, Does This Man Think of Humanity or Dollars?

The Morgan interests control 785,499 wage earners, so the U. S. Industrial Commission report, and cites facts and telegrams to prove it.

Mr. Charles A. Collman said: "When the Elder Morgan died, I wrote his four-page obituary in the Herald (N. Y.). In order to get that material I read about everything that had ever been written about Morgan; I questioned his friends and associates and consulted my personal experiences with the bankers. When I completed that obituary I was struck by a most remarkable fact. Not once by a gratuitous and kindly act, in no incident of his long career had he displayed the slightest sympathy for his human kind.

No wonder we in Wall Street were curious to learn the manner of man young Morgan should prove to be. I think the first revelation came to us as a shock. On February 21st of this year (1915) young Morgan testified before the Industrial Relations Committee. Chairman Walsh asked him what he considered the proper length of a working day for his employees. "I haven't any opinion on that subject," replied young Morgan. "What do you regard as the proper income for unskilled workmen?" "There again I have no opinion." "Do you consider $10 a week sufficient to support a long-shoreman?" "I don't know. If that is all that he can get and takes it, I suppose it is enough," and Mr. Morgan laughed. "At what age do you think children should go to work?" "I haven't any opinion."

The spectators at the hearing began to regard the witness with curious interest. "How far do you think stockholders are responsible for labor conditions?" "I don't think stockholders have any responsibility in that matter," was the reply. "How about directors?" "None at all."—From The Fatherland. This is young Morgan's stand on labor. He is at the head of the Morgan interests, which own and control banks, corporations, steamship lines, steel and iron plants that employ 785,499 wage slaves. Do you think that kind of a man is working for humanity or dollars? It is the Morgan interests that in this country were largely responsible for this country's keeping this war going in the interests of British liberty and Wall Street.

Socialism vs. Plutocracy

The man on the railroad who is a socialist says he ought to have the same pay as the president of the road. Everybody ought to be paid the same. He believes that all men should be free and equal and proposes legislation to make it so. They might just as well propose to legislate to make the stars of heaven free and equal; the stars would never stand for it, neither would human nature. The man who can only swing a pick cannot render the same service that the man who is capable of managing the affairs of that company of 100,000 men, and it is a crazy idea that he should be paid the same.

Yet that is socialism. The socialistic theory is that everything must belong to the government, and everybody be paid the same. That is simply one extreme, and plutocracy as demonstrated by the big cusses of Wall Street is the other extreme. Neither of which is a just nor safe foundation of civilization.

To-day instead of giving all a chance to work and live we proceed to get the work of the world done by as few men as possible. That is business, you know. And it is also business to get as much of what those fellows produce as we can without doing any of the sweating ourselves. What the man produces is of more consequence than the man. Investigators at Johnstown, Pa., found that the babies of the workers who receive less than $10 a week died at the rate of 256 per 1,000; while the babies of the workmen who received $25 a week, died at the lower rate of 84 per 1,000. And remember one-third of the adult workmen reported by the Immigration Commission earned less than $10 per week. Really we are not civilized yet.

Socialistic Moonshine.

Socialism is democracy gone hopelessly bughouse. This fine talk about the brotherhood of man sounds all right in a Sunday school. But there is no cohesive power in socialism. See how the socialistic brothers in Europe are at each other's throats. Socialists are blind leaders of blind and will take a header into the ditch of anarchy, and that will be the last you will ever hear of socialism. Human nature only learns by experience and will soon get the experience with a vengeance. Disintegration of the social fabric is inevitable and is near. Humanity has got to pass through an awful catastrophe before they will be willing to give up the love of money and the love of self as the foundation of civilization. But after the cataclysm humanity will see the need of turning from money. Then we can have justice. Then it will be safe for the lamb to lie down with the lion as Isaiah prophesied it yet will be. The lamb lies down with the lion now; but he is not visible; he is being assimilated. It will never be safe for the lamb to lie down with the lion until that lion loves the lamb so much that he will not eat him on sight as he does now. Then the world will be ruled by love. What a man produces will be his. And when one man cannot produce an article, one or more men will co-operate and the man who is the most necessary in that combination will receive more than the one who cannot render so important a service. But that does not mean that he is to be like John D. or Andy and make a bountiful philanthropist of himself. That is robbery. He gets more because his service deserves it and not because he can take it like a highway robber, the way they get it to-day.

Land will belong to the man that uses it and not to some one who has the earth fenced in and makes the poor pay rent for vexing the soil for livelihood. Every man must be of service to society or cultivate an appetite until he is willing to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. Be of service to his fellowman. When people have more love they will not be given so to debauchery and lawlessness and foolish frivolity as everywhere to-day. The products of labor shall belong to those who produce them and the price of any goods will be the cost of production and distribution and not what some robber wants to make off it as now.

Any system, any privilege that enables a man to enrich himself from other men's labor or other men's pockets is an injustice. In the Panama Canal Zone labor checks were used instead of money. "When the guard or criterion of the transaction in the exchange of products comes to be regarded as the realty, of which it should be but the medium of transfer, it has usurped the place of genuine riches, and falling into the hands of the great gamblers of commerce, is made the power through which the distinction of castes are formulated and maintained.

Nothing ought to be more apparent than the truth of the proposition, that the purpose for which industry is applied is the acquisition of the essentials, comforts, and luxuries of life. Gold and silver, as coin, do not comprise either of the above mentioned incentives to human activity. Place a body of men anywhere in the world where life demands shelter, fuel, clothing and food, which can only be obtained through direct industrial application, and they would never think of digging gold and silver and converting them to coin before applying their industry to the essential things. The industrial masses have been so over-burdened with the pressing wants of daily life that there has been no time to think upon the great questions of economics. They have scarcely dreamed that the distribution of the wealth of the country could be conducted without something to represent the commercial exchanges of the world, hence an adherence to the so-called medium of exchange called money, founded (or pretended to be) upon gold as a standard of value, to which they bear some proportionate ratio.

Shall men who must starve or purchase bread with labor, first purchase gold of the plutocrat—at the price they can procure that for which they perform service? This is a question the laboring classes are asking themselves, and they are awakening to the answer. They are some so-called labor reformers who still persist in the attempt to improve upon the form and use of that which shall represent exchanges. If the competitive system were admitted to be an essential factor of human activity and existence, we could agree that some medium of exchange ought to be employed. Under such circumstances we certainly would advocate the use of that which would require the least expenditure of labor, as being the most economical representative. No medium of exchange is required. During the war, the Government fed and clothed hundreds of thousands of men by locating its places of storage, and providing for the distribution of all things essential for carrying on the war. A system of distribution could be as easily instituted, even more easily, for one hundred millions of people than for one million.

Social and political economy should provide for the direct, immediate, and cheapest methods of distributing the products of industury. One of the first things to be considered in the distribution of the products of industry to 100 millions of people, is economical transportation. The channels of transportation are the only legitimate mediums of exchange, and the only ones required. Barter, in the true system of social economy, cannot exist. The processes through which the race has progressed from its more savage to its present stage of barbarism, falsely called civilization, cannot be taken as an illustration of the introduction of the new order. The present great system of competition is the natural outgrowth of the greed which actuates the animal, whether existing in the lower orders of animal life, or in the genus homo.

Every medium of exchange, whether gold, silver, or paper, which may be manipulated by the shark to the detriment in barter of the honest and unsophisticated, should be destroyed. Money and the competitive system will go together. The old fabric will go. The barter system has never been, nor can it ever be, made a system of equitable distribution. So long as it is in vogue the effort to perform little service for much of the products for which service is rendered, will impel the human mind to devise means to shirk the responsibilities of the performance of use, and to accumulate riches without rendering an equivalent. There must come a change!

We are confronting the world's catastrophe on the lines of competition. The nations will be astounded at the suddenness with which it will culminate. Modern Christianity is a conglomeration of all the paganisms of the world and will suddenly crumble to the dust. The governments of the world, devoid as they are of every spark of divine principle—love to the neighbor, will find their sepulchre in the valley of the decomposing carcass of a polluted and hypocritical church."—From "The Sign of the Lord's Coming."

The man we needed in the White House during these perilous times is William Randolph Hearst. But it is too late now. The damage has been done.

Germany with armed enemies all around her needed a big army. British navalism needs to be smashed worse than German militarism. British navalism is a standing menace to America and South America. England violated the Monroe Doctrine once on this continent and took an island for a naval base and has it fortified against us near the Panama Canal. Yet England objected to our fortifying the Panama Canal. Roosevelt was President, and it would not have been fortified if Hearst had not woken up Congress and the country about it and demanded that it be fortified. It was not Roosevelt that started that fight which resulted in the fortification of the Panama Canal. It was that loyal fighting American patriot, William Randolph Hearst. With all the large daily papers he has in New York City, San Francisco, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and Atlanta, Ga., the American voters are such sapheads that they cannot see that Hearst has always worked for the best interests of the nation. In spite of his executive ability and how he has fought as a patriot and a statesman, Hearst cannot even be elected mayor of rotten New York City, modern Babylon. Because free America is ruled by Wall Street and plutocrats and boodlers and grafters and saloon keepers. And Hearst stands no more show in rotten American politics than a snowball in blazes. Get back at them, Hearst, by giving whisky hell.

Dr. Crane, Here is Your Fair and Polite Jap.

The Englishman, Mr. F. E. Smith, in his "International Law," says: "On November 21, 1894, the Japanese Army stormed Port Arthur, and for five days indulged in the promiscuous slaughter of non-combatants: men women and children, with every circumstance of barbarity." The London Times said: "Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday were spent by the soldiery in murder and pillage from dawn to dark, in mutilation, in every conceivable kind of nameless atrocity, until the town became a ghastly inferno, to be remembered with a fearsome shudder until one's dying day." Now, Dr. Crane, come forward with your whitewash.

Dr. Frank Crane says: "One of the favorite themes with troublemakers is the coming war with Japan. What they want is to be treated decently." What the swell-headed Japs want in this country, they do not and will not grant to foreigners in this country. They do not allow foreigners to hold land in Japan let alone the right to vote. Since Dr. Crane wrote his editorial it came to light that this administration expected Japan to start war on this country in 1913. It would not have been revealed when it was if one of the men from the Navy Department had not tried to run a bluff on Representative Hobson that there really was no danger of war with Japan. Hobson replied: "In May, 1913, and for several weeks thereafter our gunners at Corregidor Island stayed at their guns night and day. The harbors were mined. Troops were sent there. Everything was prepared for a two year's siege. I have noticed other things from time to time. Well, the Secretary of the Navy is here. I will ask him, if what I have stated is not true, let him deny it." The Japs are a very polite nation. They even went to war with Russia without declaring war, because they are so polite. Their profession of friendliness for this country is absolutely worthless. Until Japan ceases to be a menace to the open door and American interests in the Orient, such professions are hypocrisy. Since this war Japan has got a worse swelled head than ever. She is going to be the John Bull of the Pacific, and has begun to try it on China, which eventually will be to the detriment of American interests.

The Coming Destruction.

Before the Turk got into this war I said he would. And I sent word to the missionaries to warn the Armenians that the Turks would soon be slaughtering them. This was months before Turkey had entered this war. And I said the war would end with the Turk still in Constantinople. And that later Russia would decide to boost the Turk, bag and baggage, and will get enough Greek help to do it. Germany will not interfere then. After the Turk is expelled, then begins the revolutions and anarchy in one nation after another. That time of revolutions makes it plain to the brown man that he can jump in while the white nations are disorganized and mow them down. This war of John Bull's on Germany has made all these revolutions and anarchy inevitable. Remember the people will yet say now is peace and safety; then this destruction will be very near (1 Thes. 5, 3; Joel 2; Mal. iv, 5).

There will be such a time of revolutions as the world has never seen.

During our next administration Russia and Greece will expel the Turk (Daniel xl, 40-45) from Europe and Jew and Gentile in Palestine then want to get into the mountains. Then begins the revolutions and anarchy in one nation after another—"the time of great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time" (Matt. 24; Dan. 12. The wise understand the time). In less than 60 days after the Turk reaches Jerusalem and destroys it, there will not be a single railroad of any importance in operation in the United States. Roosevelt is the man needed.

The Leader Who Will Direct the Yellow Hordes.

The leader who will hurl the yellow race at our civilization and sweep it away is already in Japan. When the revolutions begin he will take it in his head to be the biggest thing in the world, as bumptious John Bull has long had it and is now trying to crush Germany for daring to be the more efficient in commerce. That Jap leader will see how easy he can set about his infernal job when the revolutions start after this war.

"Asia is powerful and aggressive and could provide men in tens of millions indifferent to death, requiring only able leadership to make civilization, such as we know it, a thing of the past."—From Sunday editorial, N. Y. American, Jan. 2, 1916. That leader is already in Japan.

"Asia is four times the size of Europe and has every conceivable form of natural raw wealth.

"The population of Europe is about 380,000,000.

"The population of North and South America is about 150,000,000.

"THE POPULATION OF ASIA IS 850,000,000.

"THE YELLOW AND BROWN INHABITANTS OF ASIA OUTNUMBER THE WHITE INHABITANTS OF EUROPE AND OF BOTH AMERICAS BY THE ENORMOUS TOTAL OF 320,000,000.

"THE EXCESS OF YELLOW AND BROWN PEOPLE IN ASIA OVER WHITE PEOPLE IN EUROPE AND AMERICA IS MORE THAN TWICE THE TOTAL POPULATION OF NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICA, AND NEARLY EQUALS THE POPULATION OF EUROPE."—N. Y. American, October 21, 1915.

Sir Ian Hamilton, in a speech on the coming struggle between the yellow and white races, said that the conflict would come on the Pacific coast, and a Japanese newspaper, the Nichi Nichi, replied that: "The Japanese must prepare to stand alone and face the white race in battle. The Japanese must inform other Asiatics of the fearful consequences of the prejudice and unrighteous attitude of the white man. Asia must cooperate with Japan for the common defense," The World's Work said: "When the Japanese soldiers won a battle against the Russians, bonfires were lighted upon the plains of India and in the mountains of Afghanistan, yellow nations celebrating the triumph of the yellow over the white.

Fifty Millions Mowed Down in Europe by the Mongolian Invasion.

Rev. Thomas B. Gregory said: "A black despair took hold of men's hearts, life's pleasures were forgotten, and its industries neglected. There was but one thing to think of—the appalling vision of the onswEEPing destroyers!

"The old annalists tell us that the Tartars were a fearful set to behold, with broad, flat, yellow faces, great distended nostrils, small snake-like eyes black as jet, short, thick legs, voices deep and hollow, which, in the act of yelling, sounded like the bellowing of bulls. And as the hordes of these monsters approached, we are informed, so loud was the grinding of the great wooden chariots, the bellowing of the buffaloes, the cries of the camels, the neighing of horses, and the ferocious chants of the Tartars that the people of the doomed cities could scarcely hear each other's voices.

"And so the infernal hosts swept on, villages and cities disappearing before them like grass before the scythe.

"Fortunately for civilization, just as Europe, partially recovered from its fright, was about ready to throw itself across the path of the invaders, they suddenly turned about, recrossed the Dnieper into Russia and ceased to be a menace to the nations south of that stream. In Russia, however, they held on their power for more than two hundred years and were not fairly driven out until about 1550, over three centuries from the time they first struck the Czar's dominions.

"The ringmaster and original inspirer of this Dance of Death, in which more than fifty millions of human beings were ruthlessly slain, was Jenghiz Khan, born in a tent on the banks of the Onau in 1162. It was said that he was born with a clot of blood in his clenched fist, and in blood he lived and died. Great in a sense, was Jenghiz, for, though by birth he was but the chief of a petty Mongolian tribe, he lived to see his armies victorious from the China Sea to the banks of the Danube. There were no 'Captains of Industry' in those days to exploit humanity; there were only 'Conquerors,' who murdered men outright with swords, clubs and spears, and among all the conquerors of history Jenghiz stands first. Compared with the conscienceless, remorseless Mogul, Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon and the rest of the long list were weaklings and nobodies. Of all the scoundrels who from the beginning until now have 'waded through slaughter to throne,' Jenghiz Khan bears the palm alone. In his bloody renown he stands without a fellow and without a peer."

What Will the Yellow Cataclysm Be Like?

When the yellow millions are once fairly started on their infernal sweep of death and destruction they cannot turn back any more than the army worms can from a field of green oats. Everything behind is eaten and the worms must go forward. So it will be with the yellow race. Behind will be the abomination of desolation. To exist, eat, they must keep on with their fiendish devastation of life. The upheaval will be so sudden and unexpected that unless certain powerful influences are exerted, the yellow cataclysm will arrive before it is due.

The American people are so blind and so deceived by lying John Bull that they have rushed ahead with this war and sealed the doom of our civilization. The fool tariff of a conceited college professor had put the country industrially and financially on the bum, so that when this war came there was a chance to better our desperate industrial condition and get back some of the hundreds of millions that the fool tariff had sent to Europe—better our condition by running ammunition factories. America, that claims to be the salvation of the world, helped destroy the white civilization by feeding this hell in Europé. The white race has got to pay for this hell and the next unexpected thing is the revolution and anarchy here when the after-clap of the war hits us.

"Hath this been in your days or the days of your father? a great people and strong; there hath not been the like (the yellow race); the land is as a garden of Eden before them, and behind them a desolate wilderness; yea, and nothing shall escape them. They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways and they shall not break ranks: neither shall one thrust another, they shall walk every one in his path: and when they fall upon the sword, they shall not be wounded. They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall climb up upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall enter in at the windows like a thief."—From Joel. "And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every freeman, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains."—Rev. vi, 15.

William Randolph Hearst says: "The nations of Europe must already have reached a point where they realize, more than they possibly could have realized before the event, the extent of the destruction and disaster which they are inflicting and inviting. Europe is committing hari-kari on the door-steps of Asia. . . .

You big deceivers ought to see that our civilization will go to pieces and then the leader of the yellow and brown races will see that artillery is not needed—only spears and a few rifles to mow down the disorganized white race. The American people are fools to imagine that the devil does not rule here in America. Devil means deceiver. But the sapheads imagine they are not deceived. Events will disillusionize them allright. Oh! America is so rich. They that trust in riches (Prov. xi, 4, 28) and armies (Isaiah xxxiv, 2) shall fall in the day of divine wrath. The wise understand the times, (Dan. xii, 9, 10). Children of light, ye are not in the dark that the day of wrath and destruction should overtake you as thief (1 Thes. 5).

Facts Prove Russia Was To Back Up Serbia

To Start Hell; France Was to Back Up Russia, and England Was to Back Up France for This War, You Howling Liars; Belgium Plotted With England and France Against Germany.

Would You Expect Tammany Hall to Send Up One of Their Members for Grafting? No, They Would Get Out the Whitewash

Would you expect a gang of assassins to hang themselves for a murder? That is just the kind of a rotten deal that Russia tried to force upon Austria after Serbia had carried on an agitation against Austria in Austrian territory, which resulted in the assassination of the Archduke. Russia that, when the Chinese boat was sinking and the Chinese women pitched their babies ashore to keep them from drowning, the Russians caught the babies on their bayonets and cut them to pieces. This was when Russia in cold blood massacred the whole Chinese population of Blagovestchenk in 1900. Nothing worse than this massacre has been done by the unspeakable Turk is what F. E. Smith, a British writer on International law, said. Russia, that in Persia: "I have seen photographs of the mangled disemboweled bodies of Persians as they hung head downward in the public streets. We (the British), the guarantors of Persian liberties, stood by on that occasion. Our duty was not to our interest," says an English man, Clifford Allen, in a speech in England. After the heartless fiendish atrocities the Russians committed in Persia, when they strangled freedom there and boosted Mr. Schuster out—they have a record of barbarous assassinations and atrocities for centuries, and of course you ought to be convinced that the Russians are interested in Serbia just because the brutes are all at once so tenderhearted and humane. No one but a saphead American would imagine that Russia would go to war to protect the assassins in Serbia, because Russia wants justice done to Serbia. That is just what Russia did not want the assassins to get, and no effort whatever was made by Serbia to punish the men who plotted that assassination. It was time for Austria to take action and see that the Serbians were forced to do something. But barbarous Russia, England's pal, butts in, and I will show you what for further on. Russia mobilized for war before Austria mobilized, or had even declared war on Serbia and without waiting until the Czar's proposition to arbitrate had reached Austria. It was just like a fellow that would reach for his gun and then say I will arbitrate with you, but keeps right on drawing his gun. These are the facts about Russia in spite of what the lying pro-British here tell you about the Czar's sham offer to arbitrate. Russia from the very first was determined on war. September, 1914, the famous American lecturer and traveler, John L. Stoddard, was in Europe and said: "Two years ago a prominent Russian official said to me: 'In 1915 you will see great things. Russia has recuperated from the Japanese war, and is burning to recover her lost prestige. The Russian war party cannot be restrained. You will soon see the Teutons' land inundated by the Slavic flood.'" Russia was back of the Serbian agitation in Austria which caused the assassination. "Three different attempts were made on the part of the assassins, at separate places, within a short period of time." After almost a month passed and nothing was done by Serbia to harm those who plotted that murder. They celebrated it. Russia mobilized without waiting to see if Austria was going to mobilize or declare war on Serbia.

Professor Herbert Sanborn, of Vanderbilt University, says: "So early as March, 1914, Russia was plainly contemplating immediate aggressive action toward the West. On March 12, in addition to the extremely large regular appropriation of $250,000,000 for the army, extraordinary military estimates of $60,000,000, an increase of 30 per cent. over 1913, were submitted to the Duma; in addition to this, a loan of $400,000,000 (2,000,000,000 francs) was secured from the French Government to build strategic railways designed to facilitate the concentration of troops on the European and Caucasus frontiers. According to the Paris Journal des Debats this money was lent by France on the express condition that Russia 'should render fuller service to the alliance and should take up a firmer attitude toward Germany.'"

The Czar asked the Kaiser to mediate between Austria and Serbia, and while the Kaiser was working for peace, the Czar mobilized for war, and he got it. Some assert that Austria unjustly annexed Bosnia-Herzegovina. But they always disregard the real situation which justified Austria. It is explained in "The European War of 1914; Its Causes, Purposes and Probable Results," by John William Burgess, Ph.D., J.U.D., LL.D., of A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, $1; also the pamphlet, "England on the Witness Stand," 15c. of The Fatherland, 1123 Broadway, New York. Prominent men in England have put the blame for this war upon the allies, and these quotations on Serbia and Russia are from their pamphlet: "England on the Witness Stand." It gives a quotation from "The Origins of the Great War," by H. H. Brailsford (British publication).

The Treacherous Serbs

"I remember at the close of the Balkan War in May, 1913, a yelling pack of Montenegrins at the parcel post office bawling, 'We, the Serb people, have beaten the Turk. We are a Power. We shall set Europe on fire.' They claimed that they had all got Russia supporting them, and stated repeatedly that they would begin in Bosnia." This was repeated to Miss Durham by army officers, diplomatists and others who knew what was going on. The Austrian Consul was maltreated at Prizren so grossly that the secretary to General Vukotitch stated: "The foulest insults were levelled at him and the flag. . . . Austria dares not tell or she would be laughed at by all Europe and forced to declare war." When that did not produce the desired quarrel, the Orthodox Catholics, of whom Austria is the guardian, were told that they would either have to abjure their faith or suffer death. The threats were carried out. Austria intervened, and sounded friendly States regarding an ultimatum to Serbia. This is the "revelation" made in the Italian Chamber on the 7th of December, 1914, which has been palmed off on a public that does not follow foreign affairs, as something terribly sinister and as a complete proof that Austria had meant war for some years. Inquiry was forced upon the culprit State, the facts were proven and apologies had to be given. The powder again did not go off. The next time more care was taken. The heir to the Austrian throne was assassinated at Sarajero owing to a plot in which Servian officers were implicated and by bombs prepared in the Servian Government arsenal."

Serbs Make a Promise to Be Good Only to Break It

* On March 31st, 1909, Serbia made the following declaration to the Austrian Government: "Servia declares that she is not affected in her rights by the situation established in Bosnia, and that she will therefore adapt herself to the decisions which the Powers are going to arrive at. . . . By following the counsels of the Powers, Servia binds herself to cease the attitude of protest and resistance which she has assumed since last October, relative to the annexation, and she binds herself further to change the direction of her present policy toward Austria-Hungary, and in the future to live with the latter in friendly and neighborly relations." ("Why we are at War," p. 144.) The charge brought against the Servian Government by Austria has been that that solemn undertaking was not adhered to in any way.

What Mexico is to the United States, Serbia is to Austria-Hungary. Suppose the United States should brace up and give the greasers to understand that they had to punish those who kill Americans and had to be good, and because there is Latin blood in those bandits, Spain would say to America, you shall not be allowed to punish the Mexicans—a big country like you jumping on Mexico. You can arbitrate your trouble with Mexico at the Hague. Uncle Sam would say just what Austria said: This is not a case of elocution; it is a case of execution. The Servians repeatedly acknowledged their cussedness against Austria, only to go and do worse. Serbian officials and teachers were at the head of societies which kept up an agitation to bring on revolution in Austria-Hungary. The Serbian press united in such treachery. For Austria to resent such agitation always offended the Czar and brought Austria on the verge of war with Russia in 1913. This proves that Russia was back of the Serbs in their devilry, as the Serbs themselves boasted. It was not a case of arbitration, but of execution. Liberty with the Serbs means assassination, as their bloody record after the Balkan war with Turkey demonstrated. The International Commission on the atrocities in the Balkan war reported the Serbs as the worst offenders.

A Sample of the Way the Lying Papers Here Deceive the People "Former Assassin Becomes Aged Angel"

"King Peter of Serbia is fast becoming a sentimentally pathetic figure of fallen goodness, under the deft manipulation of part of the press. Yet, unless memory is at fault, this is the same Peter who obtained his throne a few years ago through the cruel and detestable double assassination of his predecessor and the woman who shared his palace. And, unless memory is again at fault, this is the same King Peter whom the United States and several other civilized nations were brought with difficulty to recognize at all as sovereign to whom decent States could send Ministers.

"And, unless memory is again at fault, no protest against the recognition of this accomplice and beneficiary of the savage murder of his predecessor was so strong and so indignant as the protest which found loud voice in the London press.

"It is hard to avoid grinning these days over the agility with which so many staid and solemn journals turn the most surprising somersaults. Consider, for example, the case of aged King Peter: A few years ago he was a callous assassin. Now he is a heroic figure, whose pathetic fate moves all civilization to tears. Yes, it is hard not to grin."—N. Y. American, December 30, 1915.

"Serbs Are a Nation of Soldiers and Poets?"

Mrs. Pankhurst said with such rapture and hot air that the Serbs are "soldiers and poets." Here is a description of the Serbian soldiers by Douglass M. Dold, of Astoria, Long Island, who, with his brother, was in charge of an automobile relief squad to aid the Serbians: "Douglass was stricken partly blind by hardships, overwork and privations. On this account the brothers returned to their home December 24, 1915. Douglass had the honor of surrendering the City of Nish to the Bulgarians. When the great Bulgarian and German drive began through Serbia, the civil population began to flee. There was panic, disorder and confusion everywhere. While everybody had become accustomed to the sound of cannonading, it was when the Serbian troops began falling back through Nish in scattered detachments that the population began to realize the invaders were at hand.

"Then, Douglass said, a Serbian regiment known as the Twentieth Puhk killed their Colonel and swooped down on Nish and began to loot the place. Douglass attempted to protect the hospital stores which were placed in his charge. He was knocked down and beaten by the soldiers who wasted the stores of alcohol and quinine. They also got away with 2,400 pairs of shoes.

"After this regiment left the remnant of the population appealed to the Bishop of Nish to induce Douglass to surrender the city to the invading Bulgarians and ask for protection.

"When the Bulgarians were within a short distance of the city, accompanied by the Bishop and a throng of young women bearing garlands of flowers, Douglass says he started out to meet the invaders.

"A big white flag was waved in front of the two men, when an officer of the invading Bulgarians rode forward, and was addressed first by the Bishop, who made frequent references to Douglass.

"The Bishop said he was afraid the Bulgarians would cut all of their throats,' said Douglass last evening, 'and as I was an American with an American passport he wanted me to surrender the city and ask for protection. In his speech the Bishop kept saying I was there as an American to give them protection.' . . .

"I showed my passport and asked for protection of the city and the people. I also asked him to protect the hospital stores that were left from the looting Serbians. . . .

"There were twenty-five automobiles in our squad when we left America, June 25.

"We were hampered by untold red tape in Serbia, and I can testify the Serbians are born joy riders. They never missed a chance to requisition a car for a little jaunt."—New York American, December 25, 1915.

The Serbs are treacherous birds and deserve what they got.

Russia Was Determined to Have War

Russia, that is always committing assassination by the wholesale, on July 24th said Servia shall not be humiliated. The next day, the 25th, before any other country had mobilized, Russia decided on partial mobilization. This is shown by the note to Germany, July 30th, stating that the "military measures now coming into operation were decided upon 5 days ago." The next day, 26th, two days before Austria declared war on Serbia, Russia stated in a telegram to Italy that the conflict cannot be localized, that is between Austria and Serbia (see Russian Orange Book, Manchester Guardian, September 10, 1914). Russia said the conflict, war cannot be localized. Austria had not yet declared war on Serbia and had only begun to mobilize the day that Russia telegraphed to Italy that the conflict cannot be localized. Russia was backing up Serbia, and she knew that would bring war between Austria and Serbia, and Russia was determined to get into it. That is why Russia said two days before there was war that the conflict, war cannot be localized.

Why the Proposed Mediation Failed

"The proposal of mediation made by Sir Edward Grey on July 29th suggested: Austria-Hungary should undertake, after the occupation of Belgrade and the Servian territory at the border, not to advance further, while the powers would try to bring it about that Serbia should give to Austria-Hungary a satisfaction adequate for that monarchy. The territory occupied by the Austro-Hungarian Army should be evacuated again after the satisfaction had been rendered. Sir Edward Grey conveyed this proposal on July 30th to the English Ambassador at St. Petersburg, and added:

I suggested this yesterday as a possible relief to the situation, and if it can be obtained I would earnestly hope that it might be agreed to suspend further military preparations on all sides. ('Blue Book,' No. 103.)

This proposal was transmitted and recommended by Germany to the Austro-Hungarian Government; similarly by the English and French Ambassadors to the Russian Government (Yellow Book, No. 112). The proposal was not yet answered by Austria, and Russia, too, had not yet taken any attitude concerning it, when the general Russian mobilization ensued. The assertion that the Russian general mobilization had been made necessary because Austria-Hungary declined all intervention by the powers (Blue Book, No. 113), is thus in strict contradiction to the state of affairs as pictured in the English and French documents."—From "Germany's Case in the Supreme Court of Civilization."

The day after Sir Edward Grey made this proposal of mediation by a conference of the powers, he threatened to resign unless England backed up France and Russia in war on Germany. His proposal of mediation was a sham. He did not make public that he threatened to resign unless he got war. "This sinister liar, Grey," "Presently they will send him to the gallows," is what a famous professor in Oxford University, Dr. F. C. Conybeare, wrote to a friend here in America. His letter is published in "England on the Witness Stand," of the Fatherland, New York, 15 cents.

How Grey Managed it to Make Sure Hell Would Be Raised in Belgium.

The British Cabinet wanted Belgian neutrality respected and they wanted to keep out of war with Germany. Germany agreed to not invade Belgium if England would keep out of the war, which were just the two things the Cabinet wanted. And Grey knew that the Cabinet would jump at the offer and then the neutrality of Belgium would be guaranteed. Because the Cabinet and the English people did not want war with Germany. So unless Belgium was to be invaded, Grey could not get England to go to war with Germany. Yet Grey had already threatened to resign unless England would support France in war against Germany over Servia. So Grey kept Germany's offer to guarantee the neutrality and independence of Belgium if England would remain neutral—Grey kept this offer from the Cabinet and from the House of Commons so that the neutrality of Belgium could not be guaranteed and that they would believe that nothing could be done with Germany to save Belgium. Then, in order to insure that Belgium would be invaded, Grey made it plain to Germany that England would not agree to remain neutral under any circumstances, even though Germany respected Belgian neutrality. Grey informed the German Ambassador on July 29th that: "Russia cannot be expected to allow Austria to humiliate Servia." (White Paper, 88 and 89.) This showed that Grey was with Russia and he stated on the 26th that "if war were to break out in Europe no nation could take a detached attitude." Sapheads, this meant that if war broke out in Europe, England would get into it. That is they were all going at Germany.

Germany offered to indemnify Belgium for peaceable passage through to France. But England would not allow that. On August 4th Grey telegraphed the British Minister at Brussels: "You should inform Belgian Government that if pressure is applied to them by Germany to induce them to depart from neutrality, His Majesty's Government expect that they will resist by any means in their power." (Ibid., Document 155, p. 108.) "It was a terribly selfish act to press that advice upon Belgium, when no substantial assistance, in the military sense, could be rendered to save Belgian territories from devastation."

Grey would not allow the Belgians to let the Germans pay toll and pass peaceably through; but His Majesty, the British Stiff, expects you Belgians to invite destruction by resisting the Germans. Grey wanted the Belgians to resist the Germans so there would be hell in Belgium and thus turn the world against Germany. See how John Bull would not allow Antwerp to surrender without resistance so as to cause all the havoc possible there. The King of Belgium had prepared to resist the Germans, but he felt that if there was a way out of that he would rather be excused. So August 4th he telegraphed Grey: "I make a supreme appeal to the diplomatic intervention of your Majesty's Government to safeguard the integrity of Belgium" (Ibid. p. 153). He asked Grey to diplomatically intervene and save Belgium. By remaining neutral Grey could have saved Belgium. He did just the opposite and forced the Belgians to invite destruction by resisting the Germans. They had to resist, too, or the British navy would have turned loose on Belgium. If the neutrality of Belgium were all that England and Grey wanted he would have agreed to remain neutral and thus Belgium would not have been invaded. If England had agreed to have kept out of it, then France would not have wanted the German navy coming around at her coast and she would have suddenly found a good excuse to keep the peace. France did not want to go into it without the support of England, as is proved by the telegram that Grey sent, July 30, 1914, to the English Ambassador (see page 45) in Paris: "The French Ambassador in London reminded me to-day of the letter I had written him two years ago, in which we agreed that if the peace of Europe was seriously threatened we would discuss what we were prepared to do." That day Grey threatened to resign unless England would support France in war on Germany over Servia. If England had kept out, France could not have been coaxed to have gone to war. Then that barbarous brute, the Russian bear that walks like a man, would not have wanted to commit suicide by trying to eat all the Germans that would have called on him. There would have been no war if England had not backed up France. But piling up the debts and taxes as they are in England, it will be only a short time after this war ends until England will have trouble enough, and then will be done unto England's navy and commerce what she did to ours during our internal troubles. Retribution good and plenty is not far away for diabolical John Bull, and no pirate deserves it more than he. Sir Edward Grey deserves a rope around his neck.

A Member of Parliament, J. Ramsay MacDonald, said: "It is interesting to gather from Sir Edward Grey's speech of August 3d and the White Paper how completely the Entente entangled him. There were first of all the "conversations" between French and British naval and army experts from 1906 onward. These produced plans of naval and military operations which France and we were to take jointly together. It was in accordance with these schemes that the northern coasts of France were left unprotected by the French navy. When Sir Edward Grey evoked our sympathy on the ground that the French northern coasts were unprotected, he did not tell us that he had agreed that they should be unprotected and that the French fleet should be concentrated in the Mediterranean."

Grey's Secret Agreements With France.

An extract from a letter by E. D. Morel, an Englishman, to the Executive of the Birkenhead Liberal Association, England, which appeared in the Birkenhead News and in the Birkenhead Advertiser of October 14, 1914.

"On August 3rd last, 1914, when the tramp of armed legions had begun to shake the plains of Europe, the Foreign Secretary revealed to the House of Commons, amid shouts of approval from the Tory benches, that he had contracted liabilities toward France as far back as 1906; that they had been renewed on divers occasions since, and that the final seal had been placed upon them on the previous day, August 2nd. These liabilities had taken the form of (a) authorizing a plan of military operations on the Continent of Europe between the British and French General Staffs, (b) authorizing an arrangement between the Admiralty and the French Naval authorities involving a strategic disposition of the French fleet favorably affecting our naval position in the Mediterranean, but leaving the French northern and western coastline undefended, (c) undertaking to attack the German fleet if the German fleet made a descent upon the French coasts or interfered with French shipping.

"It came, therefore, to this. While negative assurances were given to the House of Commons, positive acts diametrically opposed to these assurances had been concerted by the War Office and the Admiralty with the authority of the Foreign Office. All the obligations of an open alliance had been incurred, but incurred by the most dangerous and subtle of methods; incurred in such a way as to leave the Cabinet free to deny the existence of any formal parchment recording them, and free to represent its policy at home and abroad as one of contractual detachment from the rival Continental groups.

"What Is Wrong With Civilization?"

contains the official papers which undeniably prove the following statements:

The Kaiser tried to get a peaceable settlement between Austria-Hungary and Serbia, and finally Austria agreed to discuss the matter with Russia. But the Czar forged ahead with his mobilization. The Kaiser tried to persuade him to stop, so that there would be no war. Now you liars, if the Czar had stopped mobilization, then how would the Kaiser have got war? The Kaiser tried to effect a peaceable settlement between Austria and Serbia, and he tried to persuade the Czar to not mobilize; he asked France to keep out; he asked England to keep out, and agreed to not invade Belgium if England would keep out; after the Kaiser tried to persuade Russia to not mobilize, you liars accuse the Kaiser of causing the war. It would not be any more of a lie for you to accuse him of plotting the assassination of the Austrian Crown Prince to bring on this war. The Kaiser saw that after the way England backed up France to the verge of war in 1911, and the way Russia was building military roads toward Germany, and the French navy was in the Mediterranean Sea, and France was increasing her army 50 per cent., that war was coming in spite of all he could do. And like a sensible man he got good and ready for it. The allies wanted war and they have got it, too, and I am sorry when any one spoils for war so, as John Bull did, that he has not got it worse. John Bull looked out for his own hide all right. Made sure that the navy could keep the Germans from his "tight little isle," and then backed up the other nations to go at it, and forced little Belgium to stand up between him and the Germans. The yellow race will yet land in England without any trouble, easier than England and her big navy could land here. Anarchy is what will let the yellow race into England. The British, the way that they have always treated every other nation, I have not the least bit of sympathy for them, because of the downfall that they are to have for tearing down civilization. Pride always goes before a fall. It did down south before the rebels parted with their slaves. It did with old Pharaoh, and will be the same with Wall Street and John Bull.

In Paris the French Murdered Germans Before War Was Declared

Henry M. Ziegler, a millionaire of Cincinnati, was in Paris and said: "It will never be known how many Germans were killed in Paris during the three-day riot of July 30, 31 and August 1. The crimes of that period, could they but become known, would shame the civilized world." Then he told what he saw.

The London Times says that it must be remembered that the majority of the American people have only the haziest idea of the menaces of European politics. The American people know about as much about European politics and diplomacy as a parrot does about algebra. People think that because Germany took Alsace-Lorraine from France in 1871, that France should have it back when Germany simply recovered what France had stolen from her. They are not posted in history farther enough back.

Prior to 1870 there is more history of France and her 400 years' treatment of Germany contained in the letter of that famous historian, Thomas Carlyle, to the London Times than nine out of ten Americans know about France before the Franco-German war.

Cuss the Kaiser, You Liars.

Blundering John Bull could not compete with the scientific and efficient German, and his rotten civilization founded upon glorious British liberty was tottering; revengeful France was sore because she got the smashing she deserved in 1871, and had to cough up what she had stolen, Alsace-Lorraine; barbarous Russia, the graveyard of small nations, has fought many wars to get a water outlet on the south, and that is why the Czar backed up dare-devil Serbia to start this war. And that treacherous Belgian Government plotted with England about this war and years ago prepared for this war by fortifying next to Germany. Even in British Parliament they years before this war began suspected that Grey was plotting with France for war on Germany and repeatedly questioned Grey if there was not a secret agreement to send men to fight with France against some other nation. But the sapheads here know nothing about the deep-laid plots of Sir Edward Grey even after he has confessed.

You big crooks and measly liars well know that England and France and Russia planned long before 1911 to sometime go to war with Germany. You well know that Grey has acknowledged that England and France planned to go to war with Germany before Belgium was invaded and whether Belgium was invaded or not. That is all explained in this book for the benefit of the sapheads that are so crazy about this war and the dollars they can make out of it. You crooks and liars know all about this infernal assassination plot of John Bull's and you go ahead and help that insolent, ruthless, rapacious pirate in a war that now has made it inevitable that the white man's civilization will go to pieces. Then the yellow race will only need bayonets and spears to destroy the white race. The simpler the plan the more effective it will be. This nation has acted like it was crazy drunk, rushed right along feeding this hell in Europe, decimating, pauperizing and burdening Europe with such debts that has made sure the swift destruction of the white race. But the revolutions have got to start before you fools can see anything ominous and the yellow hordes have got to come at you with bayonets before you will believe there is any danger. Stupid humanity will get the convincing of their lives before another four years roll around. These are the days of the unexpected, of discontent and sudden upheavals. If you feel like cussing me go butt your fool heads against the Flatiron Building; I tried to stir you up by writing "A New Argument for Peace" in September, 1914. Do not blame me for your being a fool. Go out to your back-doors and take a good kick at yourselves.

Cuss the Kaiser, you pro-British maniacs. I prove to you that Grey has confessed that since 1906 England plotted with France for war on Germany. I prove to you that France plotted with Russia for war on Germany. I prove to you that Russia was back of Serbia and Serbia was to start the scrap. Yes, the Czar said settle this trouble between Austria and Serbia at the Hague. But the Czar kept right on mobilizing after Austria offered to arbitrate. If your mortal enemy said to you: "O, I will arbitrate this trouble with you," but your enemy kept right on pulling his gun, you would tumble to it that his offer to arbitrate was a damned sham to get you. That is the Czar's kind of offer to arbitrate down at the Hague that the Allies tell you so much about. That is the sham offer the Czar asked the Kaiser to accept while he was pulling his gun, mobilizing. The Russian brute and liar was simply sparring for time to fully mobilize. Germany notified the brute to stop mobilizing in twelve hours or there would be war. The Czar forged right ahead for war and he got it. He went right ahead when he knew that it meant war with Germany.

Do you think that he would butt into war with Germany with no one to help? Are you so stupid as to believe that the Czar would forge ahead when the Kaiser notified him that unless he stopped in twelve hours there would be war? Are you so blind as to believe the Czar would ram ahead into war with Germany unless France was to chip in? And are you so stupid as to imagine that the French would go to war with Germany when the French Navy was in the Mediterranean Sea and the German Navy could come at the unprotected coast of France? Are you such a fool as to imagine that France would go to war with Germany unless England was to protect the French coast? Churchill was connected with the British Navy and has boasted that the British Navy had been for five years preparing for war with Germany. Yet lying John Bull gets off that old gag that he was not prepared. Before there was any war Grey threatened to resign (July 30th) unless England would back up

France and Russia in this war. Yet that very day he made public a proposal for arbitration between Austria and Serbia; but he did not make public his threat to resign unless England went to war with Germany just because France and Russia were intending to. All this is proved from official papers that you liars cannot deny. Publically Grey was hypocritically shamming for peace; but officially he was diabolically trying his best to force war. You get the proof and particulars farther on, you sapheads. Yet the British get off that gag that they were not prepared for the war to make you fools imagine they did not want this war, when their prominent officials had been plotting for this war for years. That British preacher, Rev. Dr. R. J. Campbell, said in the N. Y. American, December 20, 1915, that: "Sir Edward Grey was an efficient cause of the terrible fact that we are at war to-day, that tens of thousands of our sons and brothers have been slain and hundreds of thousands maimed for life, that multitudes of homes have been plunged into mourning."

It was made clear to Germany in 1911 by the way England, to the verge of war, backed up France in breaking that treaty, The Act of Algeiras, signed by France and Germany in 1909, that war with England and France was inevitable. Then England agreed to protect the French coast with the British Navy and the French Navy was sent into the Mediterranean. France discussed a 50 per cent. increase in her army and Russia was rushing her military plans and loans and military roads. Even in the British Parliament they suspected England was to back up France in war on Germany and repeatedly questioned Grey about it. Germany saw that it was going to be a case of fight and very wisely got a double shuffle on her preparations for war.

Wonder How Many More Nations John Bull Thinks He Should Have Had Lined Up to Make War on Germany in Order to Have Been Prepared for This War?

Last spring John Bull boasted that he was going to take Constantinople by Easter. John Bull is always blowing off through his hat. You all remember how they talked of the way Russia was going to roll right over on top of Germany like an army of steam rollers. Yes, soon after this war started the British in London bet that they would have Germany whipped in three months. They never expected Germany to make the Russian steam rollers run backwards instead of forward. They were not expecting Germany to put it over the Russians so easy. They were expecting the big Russian bear to just eat Germany. Instead of that, Germany took some big chunks out of Russia. England was not prepared for such unexpected turns of the war. England plotted for years to get this war, but it has not gone the way John Bull and his pal, the Russian bear, planned.

No, the British were not prepared for that campaign against Constantinople and the Dardanelles, the way it turned out. John Bull barked up the wrong tree at a sick man, and the sick fellow came down the tree and accommodated him and bumptious John had to beat it. Every time John Bull blunders and gets a fresh blister raised on his bumptiousness, he rolls up his eyes and says, "I was not prepared." No, they were not prepared for the German siege guns to lift the forts into the air.

Dig Up for the War Sufferers.

Dig up for the German war sufferers and not the blood-thirsty French nor the English. The American ammunition is not killing them.

"Idiotic Yankees," dig up for the sufferers of this war which John Bull got. The London Times said: "Papen more idiotic than the idiotic Yankees." Not long before this war the British hotelkeepers said they would rather have the Germans to patronize them than Americans. English, like the rest of Europe, have no use for Americans except their money. Irwin Cobb is pro-British in this war; yet you can read his book, "Europe Revised," and see just what the British think of Americans, and then despise them after they do get tips out of them. See how they despise us by the kind of characters they put on the stage to represent Americans. Yet "Europe Revised" is a very entertaining book; published by George H. Doran Co., New York. The American people are easily jollied up and soft-soaped by the French and British. England has for her ally our enemy, Japan. That is how much of a friend that British government is to us.

How Mr. Hearst Worked to End this War.

President Wilson, why have you allowed so many months to pass without trying to stop this war as Mr. Hearst urged?

"Good people, this is an awful war. It is the insanity of wickedness. The very rulers and ministers who among them began it, are lying to God and to men in the effort to escape the obloquy and the guilt of their dreadful deeds. It is a senseless war, from which humanity has nothing to hope, a war of national, racial and dynastic jealousies and antipathies, a war of greed and rapine. Beginning in folly and stupidity, it has degenerated into a universal madness of destruction, that threatens to topple our civilization to its fall and ruin. Citizens, we owe it to God, to mankind and to ourselves to try, at least, to stop this war. And, citizens, we are false to our duty to God, to mankind and to ourselves if, instead of trying to stop this war, we most wickedly provide the means of prolonging it. Every dollar of profits earned by supplying the weapons and the money to prolong this war is a wicked dollar, an accursed dollar, stained, in the sight of God and in the eyes of all right-thinking men and women, with the blood and tears of suffering humanity.

"Americans, we cannot afford to have our country enriched with such money as that. It is the price of innocent blood, the wages of humanity's betrayal, abhorrent to every sentiment of manly and good American hearts. Better were it for our peace, our honor and our welfare now and in time to come, that we sank the gold ten times over in the depths of the sea, rather than to sell Europe's peoples to suffering and despair and death for wicked blood-money. As we have only indignation for those Americans who would prolong this war, so we have only contempt for those Americans who insist that we can do nothing to stop this war. Even if we should not succeed in stopping this war, we can at least TRY TO STOP IT. We think this war can be stopped. We believe that the President of the United States, with Congress of the United States to help and the unanimous consent of the people of the United States back of them both, could end this war in sixty days. If the peaceful representations of the United States were flouted by these war-maniacs, there is a peaceful weapon they will not flout. If the United States should refuse to sell any of the combatants supplies and munitions and refuse to lend them money, the war would automatically stop in sixty days."—N. Y. American, September 30, 1915.

"Why does our national Government 'palter with the chance sublime'? In the whole recorded history of mankind there never was a duty more clear, an obligation greater in human affairs than this duty to do all we can to stop this war. In the present instance, our bloodless participation alone would end this war. Our moral force, our national resources exerted on one side, withheld from the other, could end this war without the shedding of one drop of American blood. Why do we hesitate to end this war without going to war?"—N. Y. American. Why? It is the gall that we had down at Baltimore, that disregarded the will of the people as expressed at their primaries. It is to help out the land where the professor's grandparents were born and lived and died, and to suit Wall Street. Look up and see how many of the Cabinet are Wall Street men, and worked for Morgan.

Without the arms and ammunition from the United States, England's war on Germany would have had to stop a year ago.

It is American war supplies that has kept this war of England's on Germany going for a year.

You ignoramuses should remember that it is an unprecedented international deal that confronts Germany. Without the enormous, unheard of supply of infernal stuff from America this war would have had to stop months ago. If that supply had been cut off the allies would have been at a standstill. International law never had to deal with such monstrous brand of hypocrisy as our so-called neutrality. The French order stuff here, but the manufacturers have got to make an agreement not to sell to Germany or Austria. And England contracts arms and ammunition, but the manufacturers must make an agreement not to sell to the Germans. And you demagogues and liars down at Washington lie to the people here and call such an infernal deal as that to Germany, neutrality. It is time for you to toot your Pharisee horn some more about how humanitarian you are and roll up your eyes and tear off a few more yards about the law of humanity. After this war ends, International Law needs to be overhauled so that no nation can hand another nation such a treacherous deal as this country is handling Germany and then call it neutrality.

This is by far the most important matter that should be considered at the next conference on the law of nations.

The Blackest Page in American History.

The blackest page in our history is not human slavery, infernal as it was. A white brute down in Washington, D. C., was the father of 25 children by negro women who were his slaves, and he sold those children into slavery, and this was a common thing in the south. Truthful "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is still the most unpopular book in the south that ever was published.

The blackest page in American history is our manufacturing of the infernal stuff to blow a nation into hell and then hypocritically calling such diabolical treachery neutrality. The law by which our lying politicians pretend to justify this infernal deal to Germany and label it neutrality is just as diabolical as the law by which the Jews justified themselves in crucifying Christ. This will sound seditious to the lying Wall Street gang and the politicians that serve them. Once it was seditious to denounce human slavery. Now howl, you devils.

More Infernal Stuff Going to the Allies Now Than Ever.

Two Millions of U. S. Munitions Sent to Europe Daily. Total War Shipments Now $250,000,000 and the Production is Growing Rapidly.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—American-made war munitions are now pouring into Europe at the rate of nearly $2,000,000 worth daily, with the figures swelling rapidly. Not until the middle of 1915 did war materials contracted for begin to move in considerable quantities. Department of Commerce estimates to-day put total munitions shipments since the war began close to $250,000,000. At the present rate of shipment THE NEXT FOUR MONTHS WOULD SEE THIS TOTAL DOUBLED EVEN IF PRODUCTION REMAINED AT A STANDSTILL. BUT PRODUCTION IS DECLARED TO BE GROWING FASTER NOW THAN AT ANY TIME SINCE AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS BEGAN TURNING THEIR PLANTS INTO MUNITIONS FACTORIES.

More than $100,000,000 worth of high explosive shells have left American shores. Powder comes next with shipments of nearly $100,000,000. Small arm cartridges are third with $30,000,000. Firearms, including ordnance, exports are put at less than $20,000,000.—From N. Y. American, Feb. 17, 1916.

That the people of the United States, deliberately, avowedly and with the aid of all that industrial efficiency for which we are famous, should now be helping to prolong the war for the profit of a few of our citizens is execrable.

AND THE WITHHOLDING OF AMERICAN MONEY, AMERICAN EXPLOSIVES AND AMERICAN ARMS WOULD COMPEL PEACE.

How can we protest against barbarism while we supply its tools? How cry aloud in horror at the massacre of Armenian Christians when we furnish money to Christians massacring each other? How can we preach peace while filling our pockets with the bloody spoils of war?

Let us while it is not too late purge ourselves of blood guiltiness and highly resolve that from this nation, devoted as it is to the ideals of peace, there shall proceed nothing more to aid the red madness of murder and rapine which is sweeping Western civilization into the pit of anarchy.—N. Y. American, Oct. 1, 1915.

Germany and International Law.

Sapheads and liars, get the first principles of International Law through your skulls! The British authority, Halleck's International Law, says of the right of self-preservation: "This is one of the most essential and important rights incident to State sovereignty, and lies at the foundation of all the rest. It is not only a right with respect to other States, but a duty with respect to its own members, and one of the most solemn and important duties which it owes to them."

Self-preservation prevents attack as well as repels it. Another British authority, Sir R. Phillimore's International Law, says: "The Right of Self-Preservation, by that defence which prevents, as well as that which repels, attack, is the next International Right which presents itself for discussion, which it will be seen, may under certain circumstances, and to a certain extent, modify the Right of Territorial Inviolability."

Self-preservation is the first law of nations as well as nature. Sir R. Phillimore says: "No nation has a right to prescribe to another what these means shall be, or to require any account of her conduct in this respect." Germany had to deal with an unprecedented situation. A nation had gone into the business of supplying the war material to crush Germany, yet and without that supply the allies would be unable to carry on the war. Then the law of self-preservation justifies Germany in cutting off as much of that unprecedented supply as she could. That is her own self-preservation, and "no nation has any right to prescribe to another what these means shall be, or to require any account of her in that respect." Because the big crooks and lying politicians here had made this country the base of military supplies without which England could not have carried on this war. They did this and then hypocritically called it neutrality. It made no difference what they called their cussedness. Germany has the right of self-preservation, that is, not to sit still and let their hellish work go on without trying to cut off as much of that supply as possible in the way she could. The only way was to sink every carrier of these war supplies without which the infernal stuff could not be used against Germany. This was simply exercising her right of self-defense or self-preservation by the only means within her power, that was her submarines. Remember, "no nation has a right to prescribe to another what these means shall be." Swiss International Law says: "The right of self-preservation gives a nation a moral power of acting in regard to other nations in such a manner as may be requisite to prevent them from obstructing its preservation." Yet this is the very thing the Americans did. Load up the ships with arms and ammunition and put on a few Americans so as to obstruct Germany in her right to sink that ship.

Americans have no rights on those vessels not as much as they have down in Mexico. Germany has a moral right to sink as many of these carriers of ammunition, loaded or unloaded. This is her own self-defense since this country runs its factories night and day to keep England and France from getting the thrashing they deserved. Americans have a right on the high seas but not on ships carrying ammunition and war supplies. England made food contraband; then Germany has a right to send all contraband to the bottom of the sea. Americans have a right on the high sea but not in a way to obstruct Germany in her right to sink these carriers of ammunition and war supplies. - A man has a right to cross the railroad track. But he has no right to butt-in ahead of the engine and blame the engine for hitting him. Just so with those Americans who want to ride on vessels carrying ammunition. Bah! this administration does not care for American lives. Get my big book and post up. This administration butted in and drove out Huerta. Because oil interests opposed Huerta. Get my big book. Americans can travel on vessels not engaged in carrying ammunition and war supplies and be safe. Germany will not molest them. That is all any neutral man will ask in these perilous times. Get my big book and cuss some more. "Nearly ONE THOUSAND AMERICAN MEN AND WOMEN AND CHILDREN, have been butchered and tortured and outraged with every circumstance of hideous brutality, cruelty and abominable lust down in Mexico."—N. Y. American. And Prof. Wilson after he was elected on a pledge to not stand for such butchery of our citizens suppressed those particulars for fear the American people would not stand for it. Yet Prof. Wilson after he was elected on a pledge to not stand for ravishing of our women and slaughtering of our citizens suppressed such particulars and claims he is anxious about American rights. If it will help England.

John Bull Wanted a Submarine to Get the "Lusitania" to Stir Up England and America.

The "Lusitania" was loaded with enough ammunition to kill 40,000 Germans, and the treacherous ammunition devils wanted Americans on board and make that a pretext why this stuff to kill Germans must not be sent to the bottom of the sea. Without the ammunition from this greedy hypocritical nation the war would had to stop and Germany had a right, according to International Law, to send it to the bottom. John Bull wanted a submarine to get the "Lusitania" to arouse England to fight and to get the American sap-heads stirred up still more.

Here Are the Facts About What the British Admiralty Did to Let a Submarine Get the "Lusitania."

England knew that the Germans were going to try to get the Lusitania. Because they had advertised they would, and England knows the Germans are no bluffers. They back up their words with action.

The Washington, D. C., Post, states the following fact:

"The British government was aware that a desperate effort was to be made to sink the Lusitania. The warning issued by Germany was as well known in England as in the United States. The captain of the Lusitania is an officer of the royal naval reserve, and he was in communication with the British admiralty at all times. He was under orders from the admiralty, and the ship's movements were controlled by these orders.

"Why was it, then, that Capt. Turner took the beaten path and appeared in the war zone exactly on schedule time, at the place where the enemy might expect to find him?

"Why was it that he slowed down from 24 or more knots to 17 knots, at the same time blowing his fog whistle continually, although the weather was fine and clear?

"Why was it that no British patrol boats or torpedo boats or other warships appeared to escort the Lusitania, in view of the warning that had been issued by the enemy?

"Why was it that the censorship was applied with drastic severity, completely shutting off all information as to the nature of the instruction given to Capt. Turner?

"Capt. Turner testified at the inquest that he obeyed wireless orders of the admiralty. What were those orders, and why does the British government conceal them from the public?

"The suggestion is made in some quarters that the British government actually relied upon the presence of American passengers on the Lusitania as a safeguard against attack; that instead of guarding the Lusitania with warships, or ordering her to take another route and try and evade submarines, the British government deliberately used the American passengers as a shield, relying upon their presence to save the ship and its cargo of war material from attack.

"The Post makes no charge that the British government and the master of the Lusitania deliberately placed the vessel in the track of danger and advertised her presence there, in the confident expectation that the German submarines would let the vessel pass rather than run the risk of destroying American lives. But we do say that if Capt. Turner had desired to give German submarines notice of his identity and whereabouts, and had desired to facilitate in every way a successful torpedo attack, he could not have taken more effective means to carry out his purpose. Therefore, in common with many other Americans, this newspaper would like to know what answer would be made to the questions propounded above."

I have a copy of the N. Y. Globe, May 14, 1915, containing this statement: "Congressman Richard P. Hobson to-day expressed his opinion of the President's note to Germany in a statement which he gave to the public through George H. Hull, his brother-in-law, of 30 Pine street. Hobson telephoned the statement to this city from Torrington, Conn. In the course of the statement he says:

"'A widowed cousin of mine applied at the New York office of the Cunard Line for passage on the Lusitania. The booking agent, an old friend, took her off apart and told her that the vessel was acting under Admiralty orders, and that she simply must not take passage on it. He pledged her to secrecy until after the trip.'

"This fact brings up pertinent questions. Why did not the Cunard Company give to all parties applying for passage the same humane advice its agent, for old friendship sake, gave to my cousin, instead of loading the vessel down with a full passenger list, including many distinguished Americans, whose loss would necessarily strike the American imagination?"

Since Mr. Hobson's statement was made public, the agent of the Cunard Line characterized it as "absolutely false." Why not? No one expects John Bull to confess his diabolical plots. But Mr. Hobson's cousin would have no difficulty in proving that the Cunard man she said she saw is an old-time friend of hers. The fact that Mr. Hobson's cousin intended going on the Lusitania and went to the office in time to secure passage but changed her mind, should be proof conclusive that she spoke the truth, even though five swore to a different story it would not make the lie the truth.

The "Lusitania" Kept Going Slow When Even the Passengers Saw a Submarine Around.

Dr. Foss, of Harlem, Mont., a survivor of the Lusitania, said in an interview to the New York World, that he saw a submarine about a mile off and the Lusitania was moving so slowly that it kept pace with the ship for five minutes, for he looked at his watch. He said: "It was plain that she had been seen from the bridge and that they should have put on more speed." This was about 1.45 and about 2.15 the powerful explosion came. That is, the Lusitania had been going slow for about half an hour when even the passengers had seen a submarine around. In a copy that I have of the New York American, May 12, 1915, is a fact that the Washington Post also has pointed out: "Queenstown, May 11.—Fred J. Perry, of London, one of the survivors of the Lusitania, said: I consider the slow speed of the Lusitania and the fact that she kept blowing her fog horn as nothing more than an invitation to the Germans to come and torpedo her." It was a clear day and a fogless sea, yet the captain kept tooting the fog horn regularly. He was obeying orders. He was ordered to toot the fog horn so the Germans could not fail to find her. He received orders by wireless just before entering the submarine zone, but he refused to divulge what these orders were. He was under orders. So he did what he was ordered to do; that is he was ordered to do what he did, toot the fog horn and go slow and all.

The British Could Have Protected the "Lusitania."

"The British Government dodged Lord Charles Beresford's question in Parliament as to the reason why no protection was given the Lusitania in the war zone. The hint was given that the Admiralty had no available destroyers, but that seems incredible.

"As a matter of fact the Admiralty could have saved the Lusitania unless most exceptional circumstances arose. Two or three destroyers, the natural enemies of and safeguards against the submarine, meeting the great ship before she entered the war zone and convoying her into the Mersey would have in all probability warded off any successful attack.

"No lack of ships can be pleaded in explanation of this Admiralty blunder. Even though a great screen of cruisers, torpedo boats and destroyers is needed to guard the troop ships carrying the army across the channel, Great Britain has still sufficient to have spared a few to guard so important a merchantman as the Lusitania. The four cruisers that for months have been lying off New York harbor, with the effect mainly of harassing American merchantmen and irritating American public sentiment, might have been better employed on this service. And all along the South American and Asiatic coasts are British men-of-war that evidently could be more useful guarding the waters about Britain's home ports."—From an editorial in the N. Y. American, May 11, 1915.

How They Managed to Get Americans Aboard the "Lusitania."

To get Americans aboard in New York they poohed at submarines and told how fast the Lusitania could go, and that the submarines could not get a shot at her. And then when they got over where the submarines were they slowed down and tooted and tooted the fog horn on a clear day and a fogless sea, and kept going slow when even the passengers had seen a submarine around and the boilers were blowing off steam. Then when the torpedo hits her, tell the passengers that the vessel is safe and cannot sink, when, as Dr. Foss, of Harlem, Mont., said, members of the crew were putting on their life preservers. But the officers megaphoned, as Fred J. Perry said, to the passengers that the boat would float and that there was no danger, and so, many of the passengers stood perfectly cool and collected and made no attempt to rush to the boats. This is what Fred J. Perry said. Yet members of the crew were putting on life-preservers, said Dr. Foss, of Harlem, Mont. The Captain had orders to do what he did: go slow, toot the fog horn, and, if torpedoed, to tell the passengers that they were safe, so they would not try to save themselves, and thus go down with the ship and make the loss of life as appalling and great as possible. It will only be a few short years until retribution a-plenty will be handed out to the bloody British brutes who are to blame for this war. It will not be long until it will be done unto John Bull as he has always done unto others. That is the way this universe is wound up. Let them pile up the debts and taxes in their rule-or-ruin determination to be the biggest thing on earth; well, it will not be long—only a few years more—until the jobs of those bloody British stiffes will get a jolt.

Deliberately planned to let a German submarine get that vessel after they had got as many Americans on board as possible so as to get the Americans into their war to crush Germany. Prominent Britishers have urged America to go to war and help whip Germany. That is one reason why they sacrificed the Lusitania. But to excuse the slow speed England said they were short of coal as well as stokers. They were not so short but that they could arrive in the submarine zone on schedule time. They could have gone slow on this end of the trip and then opened her up over there. And if they were short of coal they could have sent some of their destroyers to protect it. But they hold an investigation and have that investigation behind closed doors, and any one that is not a saphead could see by that they were covering things up as much as possible and that it was not an open, honest, enlightening investigation. It is no wonder the British say the Americans are fools. The way they have them fooled in this war justifies that opinion.

The article on the Lusitania was prepared in July, 1915. But there is nothing to change. The Lusitania was sacrificed by the British government to stir up the American sapheads and get us into the war with Germany and to wake up the British people to fight. But even then the British have had to resort to conscription to make the English get into the war. England and France have completely deceived the sapheads here and made them believe they are trying to crush Germany in the interests of humanity, and then they sacrificed the Lusitania to get the American sapheads to jump into the war and fight Germany. The French are completely disgusted with the Americans because they have not gone to war with Germany. The feeling is almost as bad against us in England for the same reason. To think that they have fooled the "idiotic Yankees" here and made them believe that Germany ought to be crushed in the interests of humanity, and then England sacrificed a lot of our citizens on the Lusitania to get us into it, and we keep out, it disgusts them.

Yet there are men down at Washington and all over the country that do not want peace. No, there has not been enough bloodshed and hell to suit them. They want the endless stream of ships with their loads of death and destruction going from us to the allies. In about three years the next European war between Russia and Turkey will come and then soon will peace be taken from all the earth and you hard-hearted hypocrites that call this infernal deal you are handing Germany neutrality, will get war brought right to your own dooryards here by the yellow race. You then cannot get peace on any terms. You want war and you will get war when you have no way to turn, and at a time when law and order in this country will not exist. Stupid humanity is filled with greed and hate and so deceived and blind that you cannot bring them to their senses here, and make them see the destruction they are inviting. The yellow race will only need transports and no artillery and but little ammunition, because the white race will be disorganized and helpless. They do not realize how rotten the state of affairs are here, just as though these measly politicians and Wall Street were noble and altruistic. They have got to wait until law and order is swept away here before they will believe it. Then they will be utterly helpless. No one can say that I have not earnestly tried to wake people up to how they are rushing headlong to destruction, and so has William Randolph Hearst.

In the next European war, the Greek and Russian will expel the Turk from Europe and then Asia will be stirred as Asia has never yet been aroused. Then also come the revolutions in Europe in one nation after another and a panic will hit America, followed by lawlessness. In less than sixty days there will not be a single important railroad in operation. The lawlessness of the big men will then bear fruit. One extreme follows another. This nation cannot escape anarchy, and anarchy brings the yellow deluge. This national cannot escape anarchy, the complete breakdown of law and order. If you big men think you can ward it off, you sure want Roosevelt President. But I tell you after the Turk is expelled from Europe, you will not have to wait long to be convinced that I am not guessing about this coming time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation.

Most of this pamphlet is from my big book, "What is Wrong With Civilization?" It shows just how England deceives America and gives a full discussion of this war and Mexico and shifty Wilsonism. This pamphlet was handed the printer May 31, before the powwows had yet met in Chicago, and is the best disillusionizer of the obfuscated American saphead in print.
